DEPTH BOMBS ROCK CONVOY

By AUSTEN LAKE

Staff Reporter, Boston American, Copyright, 1941

ON TROOP CONVOY TO ENGLAND (Ninth Day Out)—During midday mess the Dutchman's first mate entered the dining room, doffed his cap and announced, "Attention, pliz!" It was unusual and the airforce officers paused in their surgical operations on curried duck. "If you feel a sudden, bad bump . . . if the ship jumps, sideways, sooo! It iss ondly a destroyers dropping depth bomps."

Earlier today our escort of four destroyers and a cruiser was augmented by another quartet of sea whippets, which now formed a half moon around the transports, riding far out on the ocean's edge.

True to the mate's forecast—Wham! a destroyer let fly one of its asbeans during the afternoon — a powerful undersea detonation which jolted the transport with the effect of hitting a submerged rock. Even at a two-mile range from where the craft had kicked off a cylinder of TNT from its piston cradle, far over the stern —you could see it hurtling and over end in the air; the concussion staggered those who watched from the transport decks.

DOME OF WATER

A dome of green water rose where the charge had exploded and beneath the sea the impact radiated in all directions, an impulse as instant as electricity and with an expansion force of 3,000,000 pounds to the cubic foot.

Within a 200-yard radius, if submarine there was, its steel hull was rent like tin under a roofer's sheers, its seams burst, its control chambers flooded, and it was sent settling into the depths to rise no more.

One by one at two-minute intervals the half circle of destroyers hurtled their lethal barrels overboard and again and then again the Dutchman shuddered under the violence of the impact.

Why this subsea barrage? The Navy never explains! But theoretically, it was because we were deep in Nazi hunting grounds where the predatory boats are seeking to cut England's supply arteries. Some of such boats, whether near or far, are in this zone right now—they always are! Their sound detectors undoubtedly have already located us, bringing them nearer. For the combined vibrations of 14 powerful propeller screws must carry many miles.

Like the man-killers they are, the subs, again theoretically, may

REPORT GREEKS ASK TRUCE

By PIERRE J. HUSS

BERLIN, April 21 (INS)—After a week-end of heavy fighting German shock divisions swept southward across the Grecian plain of Thessaly today to points below Larissa on a broad front.

Mechanized forces, including tank corps, raced forward under full pressure in a wild dash to encircle and trap retreating Anglo-Greek troops, German authorities said.

With the advanced German forces only 100 miles from Athens, the Greek government was reported sending out armistice feelers through an unnamed "third party."

German forces advancing south of Larissa and Trikkala were reported advancing rapidly down toward the Gulf of Corinth and the Eastern Greek railroad center of Lamia adjoining the Talanti canal.

The "Wavell line" in Greece was ripped to shreds, it was claimed, British defenders were routed and German planes steadily harassed the withdrawing Allied armies.

On the western wing of the front, an official announcement stated, German troops pushing westward across the Pindus mountains captured an important pass near Metsovo, about 25 miles northeast of Ioannina.

30,000 BRITISH TRAPPED?

Capture of between 30,000 and 40,000 British troops—from one-half to two-thirds of the entire British Expeditionary Force in Greece—was predicted in Berlin tonight.

While brief high command announcements told of continued progress across the Grecian plain of Thessaly to points below Larrisa on a broad front, military experts estimated that between three and four British divisions were fated to fall into German hands.

If the British succeed in saving one-half of their men they will be fortunate, it was said.

It was understood in Berlin part of the British force in Greece managed to get aboard transport vessels over the week-end, but it was not revealed whether they escaped German air bombs.

German quarters discounted London's claims of heavy German losses at Kalabaka, branding these assertions mere British propaganda to cover up the Anglo-Greek "debacle." They claimed the only opposition the Germans are meeting now has been coming from rear-guard defense units.

On the roads leading south from Trikkala and Larissa to the south, German sources claimed, the British suffered terrific losses as a result of German air attacks. German troops were said to have advanced far below these two key points.

Latest reports indicated the Pan-

NAZIS' GREEK DRIVE FORCES BRITISH BACK

WITH BRITISH FORCES IN GREECE, April 21 (AP)—British forces are falling back generally to new positions in the face of a powerful German panzer drive coupled with terrific air attacks.

The Germans poured into the plain of Thessaly from three directions, occupied Larisa and then continued southward.

British, Australian and New Zealand troops are effecting the withdrawal skilfully, it is said, and their losses are comparatively low.

Repeated German efforts to outflank and capture the British units failed.

The withdrawal has been nearly completed despite terrific assaults by the German air force and the Germans are advancing "very cautiously," an army communique said.

The communique follows:

"Despite continuous bombing, the ordered withdrawal of our forces to new positions continued and is nearing completion.

"The enemy is advancing very cautiously, partly due to bad roads but largely because of the rough handling he has received whenever in contact with our men. Our casualties are light."

Karditsa, 14 miles south of Trikkala, also is in German hands.

The general descent of the German divisions from the mountains came at dawn Friday after they had been held in the precipitous passes for almost two weeks.

Their first advance was through Grevena pass, where they pushed back the Greek defenders with an overwhelming mass of troops and equipment.

Bitter Air Battle Fought Over Athens

ATHENS, Greece, April 21 (AP)—Air war in the style of the battle of Britain surged over Athens as British and Greek allies in a desperate struggle on the plains and mountains of thessaly, withdrew to new, undisclosed positions in the face of the German advance.

VICHY, France, April 21 (AP)—Dispatches reaching Vichy today from Beirut, Lebannon, said that a plane carrying 17-year-old King Peter II of Yugoslavia had reached Jerusalem in a flight over the Mediterranean during which an unidentified member of the Yugoslav cabinet was killed.

The plane was attacked in flight, it was said.

Peter, with other members of the cabinet, including Premier Simovic, Vice Premier Vladimir Macek, Foreign Minister Momtchilo Nincic and the court minister were reported to have arrived safely afterflying nonstop across the Mediterranean from Athens.

Berlin had reporter that Vice-Premier Macek was in Zagrab, Croatia, assisting in the formation of the independent pro-Nazis Croatian state.—Editor's note.

Iron Guard Revolution In Rumania

By GEORGE BALINT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BUDAPEST, April 21 (INS)—A bloody "final clash" between forces loyal to the Rumanian government of Premier Gen. Ion Antonescu and members of the "Iron Guard" was reported raging at white heat today.

Reports from the Hungaro-Rumanian border stated incessant shooting of rifles had been heard from Rumanian territory since Saturday and that the rattle of machine gun fire began last night.

Refugees arriving in Hungary from Rumanian danger zones said Antonescu rushed his best and most trusted troops against Iron Guardist "mutineers" who were said to have charged that the Rumanian premier, "like former King Carol," was an "enemy of the nation."

Tank corps likewise were reported ready to move against the Iron Guardist rebels.

"ANOTHER ENEMY"

Other advices seeping across the frontier declared that in addition to the Iron Guard insurgents and Communists, Antonescu also was forced to cope with "another enemy"—Julius Maniu's peasant party which was reported to have gained strength in recent weeks.

The Budapest radio reported that Rumania "without doubt" is about to pass through another of its periodic grace crises.

This announcement claimed Antonescu turned down an offer of collaboration from Iron Guard leader Horia Sima, deposed vice-premier, and that the Rumanian government was still ordering executions of Iron Guard members in "ever-increasing numbers."

As a result of this, the Budapest radio said, there was "considerable agitation" throughout Rumania, where pamphlets inciting the populace against the government were being distributed.

FRONTILR CLOSED

Parts of the Rumanian frontier were reported closed and guards posted along these areas were reported firing point-blank at all persons approaching the border.

Last week the Antonescu government said another anti-government plot had been uncovered and warned that insurgents would be dealt with "unmercifully."

GENERAL CONDITIONS

The spell of unseasonably hot weather has been broken along the entire Atlantic seaboard by the passage of a cold front associated with a rapidly moving disturbance just north of northern New England. Temperatures along the immediate coast were still quite mild this morning, with readings well above the normal, but just to the west a strong flow of westerly winds is transporting the much colder air which has been advancing from the Plains States, and temperatures in western New England have fallen rapidly. Some light showers and a few thunderstorms occurred in New York State and portions of northern New England late yesterday and last night, but shower activity has become very slight during the night. There is very little likelihood of further showers today except in the mountains of northern and western New England, the higher elevations of which may experience a few light flurries of snow.

16 NAZI BOMBERS DOWNED OVER ATHENS, BRITISH SAY

CAIRO, Egypt, April 21 (AP)—At least 16 German aircraft were shot down in Greece yesterday, the biggest total in one day since the German army began its offensive, the RAF Middle East command announced today.

Fourteen of the Nazi planes were destroyed in one big air battle over Athens in which a "very large formation of German aircraft" was engaged, the British said.

Seven German planes shot down over Athens were listed as JU-88 dive bombers.

Seven British planes were reported lost, but three of the pilots were safe.

In addition, German-occupied airdromes and troop columns on the move were attacked. A fire at Katarini Airdrome was visible 60 miles, the communique declared.

In Africa, Derna, Bengasi and Ain El Gazala again were raided heavily, it said.

Three Italian planes were shot down in an attack on the fortress at Malta, and several others were damaged, the RAF reported.

Manhandling Killed Soldier, Court Says

Mysterious death of Pvt. Fernand R. Trudel, 22, Gardner draftee, at Massachusetts General Hospital, March 8, was due to manhandling at Ft. Banks, Chief Justice Putnam of Municipal Court found today.

Trudel, he said, died of peritonitis caused by the tearing away of his gall bladder from his liver.

Because Trudel was abnormal, with liver and gall bladder three inches lower than in the averman, Army authorities were absolved of blame.

"I find that his gall bladder became so evulsed (torn) because of the application of force by the elbow or knee of some man at Ft. Banks," the report stated, "either when the patient was being forcibly fed on the morning of Thursday, Feb. 27 (or more likely) when he was being put in a strait jacket and prepared for transfer on Friday, Feb. 28, from Ft. Banks to the Boston Psychopathic Hospital.

NO UNLAWFUL ACT

"Such force if applied to a normally constructed man would have done no lasting harm. As applied to this man it tore his gall bladder partly away from his liver.

"I find that no unlawful act or negligence of any person contributed to the death of Fernand R. Trudel."

Justice Putnam said that Trudel was inducted about the middle of February and sent to Ft. Warren as a member of the 2nd Provisional Battalion, 9th C. A.

He said that Tuesday, Feb. 25, during close order drill, Trudel developed signs of mental aberration, and was interviewed by a captain in the Medical Corps. According to the report the soldier was overexcited and overactive and talked loudly and incessantly. He was confined to the military hospital at Ft. Warren and about 6 p. m. was transferred to the hospital at Ft. Banks, where he was put to bed in a ward with other mental cases.

PLACED IN SOLITARY

All night Trudel talked, disturbing the other patients, the report said, and early on Wednesday, Feb. 26, he was placed in solitary confinement in a detention cell in the basement, where he remained during Wednesday and Thursday.

During this period, Judge Putnam said, Trudel was violent, tearing off his pajamas and refusing to eat, at the same time talking loudly. At 11 a. m. Thursday he was forcibly fed.

Friday a board of medical officers found him insane and he was discharged from the Army the same day.

KILLER OF COP TALKS BASEBALL ON LAST DAY

Joseph L. Brooks awoke today for his last day on earth—but his first thought was with regard to how the Brooklyn Dodgers came out yesterday.

As the strokes of midnight die away tonight, the convicted slayer of Patrolman Edward F. Lee of Milton will be taken from his cell in the death house at State Prison and will walk the few steps to the electric chair.

And a few minutes later he will be dead, in atonement for a needless killing, the 57th man to die in the Massachusetts electric chair, but the first since the double execution of Wallace Green and Walter Saint-Sauveur in August, 1930.

There will be a new executioner at the death house switches for this execution, a 43-year-old World War veteran who served 16 months overseas and was badly gassed.

He is Joseph Francel of Cairo, N. Y., a master electrician, who filled in at Sing Sing electrocutions for the late Robert Elliott when Elliott was in his last illness and execution dates arrived.

Francel will receive the usual fee, $150, as well as expenses, and it was expected that he would be at the prison by this afternoon for a detailed examination and test of the chair and apparatus.

LAST BREAKFAST

For his last breakfast on earth, Brooks ate only dropped eggs on toast and drank coffee.

He ordered lamb chops, baked potato, apple pie and coffee for noon dinner, and for the final supper only ice cream, cake and coffee.

Throughout today the condemned man, who was on parole from Sing Sing when he shot down the Milton policeman, had the company and comfort of the prison chaplain, the Rev. Ralph W. Farrell. He was with Warden Francis J. W. Lanagan when the warden broke the news to Brooks today that he must die shortly after midnight.

It was an hour before noon when the warden went to Brooks' cell in

ROCKING BED AIDS IN MANY CURES, 2500 DOCTORS TOLD HERE

All the beneficial effects of a sea voyage, excepting a salt air tang, are derived from a new apparatus displayed today in Boston for some 2500 delegates who opened the five-day convention of the American College of Physicians at the Hotel Statler.

BEACH BEAUTY — Yesterday's summery weather found Stella Bowen of Chelsea at Revere Beach . . . enjoying the day with some 100,000 others.

It is the vasoscillator bed, a motorized contraption which imitates the motion of a sea voyage and which employs the natural force of gravity to help circulation of sluggish blood.

250 INSTALLED

In the past few months, about 250 of the stand-still sea voyages have been installed in hospitals, clinics, universities and a few private homes, and their results were summarized for the doctors today.

This novel bed is rocked at three speeds by a motor. These are at one and one-half minutes for a round-trip tilt in high speed, two minutes in intermediary and five minutes for slow.

In the motion, the bed tilts, head up, then head down, in a sort of slow-motion version of a ship's pitch as she rides over the crest of a wave and noses down on the other side to meet a new wave.

REMARKABLE RESULTS

Today the doctors in the Boston convention were told that an elderly executive who could not walk more than half a block because of arterio-sclerosis slept on one of the vasoscillator beds with remarkable results.

He is playing golf again and his brain has cleared of the fogginess due to the previous poor circulation.

According to the trained observers, the bed also has relieved a number of cases of Buerger's disease.

This is an ailment usually of young men, rarely of young women, with poor circulation, resulting in painful ulcers of the extremities.

Congestive heart failure and diabetic cases are also reported as relieved. In the former, a disease of aging, stretched veins, the blood flow is slowed until gangrene may start in the toes.

Dropsy, and some cases of water on the knee are other symptoms which have been relieved.

This way of using gravity was started by Dr. C. E. Sanders of Kansas City. He hooked a motor so as to rock a long board, on which reclined a school teacher whose arterio-sclerosis had kept him from working afternoons.

After his treatments, the teacher went back to work on full time.

HEAVY SUBJECTS

During their convention here, the doctors will absorb some heavy subjects, starting right from scratch today.

This afternoon they had a light workout with a paper on "The American Board of Internal Medicine as a Factor in Scholarship in American Medicine."

This was by Ernest E. Irons, F. A. C. P., clinical professor of medicine and chairman of department, Rush Medical College, and chairman of the American Board of Internal Medicine, Chicago.

DOWN TO LONG WORDS

But tonight they get down to long words, along the line of these subjects.

"Fat Metabolism in Diabetes Mellitus," by William C. Stadie, associate professor of research medicine, University of Pennsylvania.

"Sinusitis and Bronchiectasis—a New Interpretation," by Herman G. Riecker, F. A. C. P., associate professor of internal medicine, University of Michigan.

"The Role of the Vertebral Veins in Metastatic Processes," by Oscar V. Batson, professor of anatomy, U. of P.

"The Value of Sternal Marrow Aspiration as a Method of Bone Marrow Biopsy," by Ernest H. Falconer, F. A. C. P., clinical professor of medicine, University of California.

Temperature Due to Drop

Spring in New England lived up to a capricious reputation today by gently pushing the thermometer down to a comfortable 64 in contrast to Sunday's 90.

The change came about gradually during the night, with a low of 62 being registered at 2 a. m. And the weatherman forecasts still lower temperatures for tonight, when he expects a reading in the low 40's.

Throughout much of New England, the weather bureau warns, there will be light to heavy frosts. But fair weather will continue into Tuesday with only scattered cloudiness in prospect.

Coast Guard's Wild Dash Saves 2 Boys

Racing five miles by auto and speedboat from their Hull station, Coast Guardsmen today rescued two North Quincy High schoolboys after their sailboat capsized a mile off shore in Quincy Bay.

The rescued youths, Harold Whitton, 16, and Donald Newton, 14, both of Davis st., Wollaston, were weaking when the guardsmen reached them.

They had wrenched off all their clothes and were clinging desperately to an inflated inner tube when the rescuers reached them nearly a half hour after they had been tossed into the water.

The Coast Guardsmen were summoned by Quincy police, after the latter failed in an attempt to buck a strong northwest wind and reach the victims in a rowboat.

The Squantum naval air base sent up a plane to spot the youths, after a Navy speedboat reported it was unable to locate them.

Racing by auto to Pemberton, where their speedboat is kept, nearly a mile from their station in the Allerton section of Hull, the Coast Guardsmen then sped almost four miles by water to where the youths capsized.

Anti-climax to the rescue occurred when the tide ran out and left the Coast Guard craft, with the two victims aboard, high and dry on a sand bar.

But the ever-resourceful Guardsmen launched a small rowboat and picked up Dr. Vincent D'Elia, who administered first aid to the youths. Then two husky Guardsmen, wading through shallow water, brought the young sailors ashore, where a waiting police ambulance took them to Quincy City Hospital.

Hospital officials said their condition was good, but that they would be kept at the hospital for two days.

Boston to Get Playgrounds

The city law department today ruled that the trustees of the George Robert White Fund may use that money for the construction of playgrounds in congested sections of the city.

The trustees, Mayor Tobin said today, ar epreparing to go ahead on plans long in mind and at their meeting Thursday will authorize the first of a large number of recreation spots where the traffic accident rate for youngsters under 12 is highest.

The South End, it is believed, will benefit by the first of the projects. Others, the Mayor said, will be built in the North End, West End and Roxbury. The City Planning board has been conducting an investigation on desirable sites.

The Mayor indicated that the places to be chosen would be vacant lots, abandoned by former owners, where buildings have been torn down and which have no commercial or rsidential value.

On thes lots, recreation areas will be built to take the children off the streets to play in safety.

KELLY WRITES F. D. URGING U. S. LOTTERY

A United States lottery and sweepstake to pay the cost of defense preparation was recommended to President Roosevelt today by former Democratic Lieut.-Gov. Francis E. Kelly.

"A lottery is a voluntary tax," said Kelly in a letter to the President.

"I find that almost every person likes to take a chance in one form or another. Why not a national supervised lottery which would bring in hundreds of millions of dollars additional revenue every year?

"Last November the question of a State supervised lottery in Massachusetts was placed on the ballot. This referendum was carried in every senatorial district by almost a 3-1 majority. If conservative Massachusetts, by referendum, approved a State supervised lottery, then surely the great majority of people in this country would approve a national supervised lottery, especially when they realize that the proceeds were to be used for the defense of our country."

Kelly was unsuccessful sponsor of a recent bill to set up a State lottery to produce funds for old age assistance. He based his move on the action of the votors in 30 senatorial districts approving the lottery proposal. The Legislature killed the measure.

Windsor Talks On Air Tonight In Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla., April 21 (AP)—The Duke of Windsor took time out from his preparation of a local radio address today to visit Palm Beach headquarters of a British war relief group and question workers about details of the organization.

The Duke's broadcast was described as a message of "sincere appreciation to the people of Palm Beach and America for the sympathy and material aid being extended to the Brish Empire."

The talk was to be transcribed some time this afternoon for broadcasting over Station WJNO of Palm Beach at 7:30 p. m. today.

The presence there of Fred Bate of the National Broadcasting Co. had led observers to think an American network broadcast might be arranged. The three major networks later said they were not carrying the talk.

The Windsors plan to leave tomorrow on Harold Vanderbilt's plane for the Bahama Islands.

Last night, members of some of America's most prominent families waited in line to meet the Windsors at a cocktail party given by Capt. Alistair Mackintosh, longtime friend of the duke, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Dillman. Later they attended a small dinner party given by Herbert Pulitzer, publisher.

RED CROSS ASKS 1000 DOCTORS FOR BRITAIN

The American Red Cross launched a nation-wide appeal today for 1000 young American doctors to reinforce the staffs of Britain's Royal Army Medical Corps and civilian units of the Emergency Medical Service.

The appeal was made at the urgent request of its British sister society and has the full approval of President Roosevelt, War Secretary Stimson and U. S. surgeons general of the Army, Navy and public health service.

In a cabled appeal to America, Field Marshal Sir Philip Chetwode, head of the British Red Cross, declared:

"The demand is urgent."

Acuteness of the shortage was confirmed by Dr. John R. Mote, of the American Red Cross-Harvard Hospital in England, who said Britain needs doctors because of aerial bombardment of population centers, the threat of epidemics due to crowding of civilians and the needs of mobile troops on a far-flung front.

Volunteers must be graduates of a Class A Canadian or American medical school and meet the requirements of the American Medical Ass'n and the Division of Medical Sciences of the National Research Council.

For service with the Royal Army they must have had at least one year's satisfactory clinical training in a hospital registered with the AMA and be under 40 years of age

Britain to Make U. S. Doctors Lieutenants

LONDON, April 21 (AP)—Dr. J. E. Gordon, American liaison officer to the British Ministry of Health, estimated today that it would take the United States three months to meet President Roosevelt's appeal for 1000 doctors for service in Britain.

Field Marshal Sir Philip Chetwode said the American doctor volunteers would be given a lieutenant's rank with the same pay as the British and would not have to pay Britain's income tax.

At the end of the first year they will be promoted to a captaincy, he said. The Americans would be put in British units and not organized as separate American units.

YD DRAFTEES ENTER RANKS OF REGULARS

It was a big day for the rookies at Camp Edwards today.

For the draftees of the Yankee Division were completing their 13 weeks of preliminary basis training and were ready to join the National Guard regulars for company and battery activities.

This is the second phase of the program under Maj.-Gen. Roger W. Eckfeldt, YD commander.

WARNS ABOUT FAKERS

From the same camp came a warning against "fakers" claiming to be seeking funds on behalf of the Yankee Division.

Disclosing that a number of contributors have already been victimized, Gen. Eckfeldt stated:

"To prevent further embarrassment to the Yankee Division's many friends throughout the state, I suggest they insist on seeing authoritative credentials by any representative or agent approaching them for donations."

THRONG OF VISITORS

While Ft. Devens reported the largest crowd of Sunday visitors in a score of years with an estimated 7500 autos passing through the gates, Camp Edwards officials said that at least 12,000 persons visited the YD camp.

The huge turnout developed despite the fact that 16,000 of the YD boys had been on week-end leave.

Most of the soldiers who remained in camp indulged in baseball or other outdoor sports, after attending the regular church services.

It was announced that a school on anti-mechanized warfare will be held from April 28 to May 10, with members of each unit in the division attending.

Handbag Snatcher Hunted in Malden

The would-be thief struck Miss MacDonald on the head and tried to wrest her handbag away, but she fought him off. He fled when she screamed for help.

INSURANCE RATE BACKER RAPS GOODWIN

Defending a bill that would institute a merit system of compulsory automobile insurance, Fred Hamlin told the legislative committee on insurance today that Motor Vehicles Registrar Frank A. Goodwin "with all his authority hadn't been able to reduce reckless driving or fake claims."

Backers of the bill, sponsored by the Boston Automobile Club, were criticized by Goodwin last week in a public statement in which he said they "either have been fooled by the Boston Automobile Club or are themselves under the influence of the insurance companies."

GOODWIN PRESENT

Seated in the front row, Goodwin heard Hamlin brand charges he made as "absolutely untrue."

"Mr. Goodwin seems to fear higher rates if the rate making was placed in the hands of the insurance companies and taken from the authority of the state insurance commission," Hamlin said, and added:.

"I think the fear is groundless as shown by the rates in other parts of the country. No other state has compulsory insurance. The rates are much lower where the merit-rating system is in effect."

Answering Goodwin's charges directly, Hamlin declared the Boston Automobile Blub's board of directors is composed of seven business men, "none of whom is connected with any insurance company."

585 KILLED

Hamlin declared that 585 persons were killed in Massachusetts last year and 45,570 injured, for which only a "reckless minority" was responsible.

"Why should the careful driver pay the amount of money for insurance as the careless minority," he asked.

He said 89 per cent of 60,000 motorists queried by the Boston Auto Club favored the merit system of insurance.

Earlier the bill was attacked by Sydney C. von Loescke, representing the Automobile Legal Ass'n, as a "bare-faced" attempt to "sabotage" the present law.

Escaped Steer Gores Man

One man was severely gored in the arm and another tossed by a steer which escaped from the abattoir and set Brighton in a turmoil today.

The victims were not immediately identified.

The impromptu rodeo ended when Patrolman Harold Swanson chalked up his 17th kill in 20 years, shooting the animal a mile and a half away from the yards at Saybrook and Dustin sts.

Motorists were in a panic when the steer dashed into Market st., then into North Beacon, into Etna and finally Saybrook, weaving through the cars.

Telephone calls brought Patrolman Swanson and Patrolman Abraham Gallishaw. Gallishaw drove the police car to where Swanson pumped a slug into the animal, using a special rifle kept for this purpose.

2 DIE, 6 HURT IN REVERE CRASH; OFFICER'S SON FIGHTS FOR LIFE

One of eight persons involved in a car crash which took two lives in Revere, John Gerard Donahue, 22, son of a Lynn policeman, was reported in a critical condition today at Revere General Hospital, but was given a chance for recovery.

The dead were John E. Mynahan, 29, of Sheridan st., Lynn, owner of one of the machines, and James Benevento, 21, of Flint st., Lynn.

Five other persons sustained injuries in the head-on collision on Lynn Marsh rd., near Broadway cir., Revere, but the officer's son, of Flint st., Lynn, was reported the most seriously hurt.

Two other men and three women, all hurt, were occupants of the second machine.

The two cars struck with such force that the lighter machine, of the cabriolet type, was thrown several feet into the air, when it crashed with the sedan. Both machines were wrecked.

The three men were thrown into the street and three passengers sitting in the rear seat of the sedan also were tossed out. Doctors summoned to the scene found two of the men were beyond their aid. The others were taken to the Revere General Hospital, where they were attended by Drs. Francis and Daniel Licata.

Leo Daley of Stickney st., Lynn, operator of the sedan, and his wife, Ethel, were reported to have head injuries, lacerations of the head and face and possible internal injuries; Michael Cipoletti of Boston st., Mary D'Jaicomo of West Neptune st., both of Lynn, and Margaret Allix of Ballard rd., Saugus, are suffering from head injuries and possible internal injuries.

Spain Exiles Woman Red, 2 for 15 Years

MADRID, Spain, April 21 (AP)—Dolores Ibarruri, woman Communist, known as "La Pasionaria," former Foreign Minister Julio Alvarez Del Vayo and former Spanish ambassador to France Luis Araquistain Quevedo were deprived of their Spanish nationality today by a political responsibilities tribunal and exiled for 15 years.

The tribunal also ordered confiscation of all their possessions in Spain. Alvarez Del Vayo and Araquistain Quevedo are reported to be in North America, while "La Pasionaria" was said to be in Russia. Dolores Ibarruri earned the title of "La Pasionaria" for her impassioned speeches in the Cortes (Legislature) and during political reunions.

Joe Martin Bans Paid G. O. P. Director

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—Chairman Joseph W. Martin, Jr., of the Republican National Committee, disclosed today that he had decided to carry on in the party post without an executive director.

When he agreed to stay on as chairman last month the general understanding was that part of the bargain would be retention of a paid director to supervise office details. But Martin said today he believed he could handle the job with the present staff.

ADVISER — "If your boy-friend shows too much interest, and you're not ready to say 'yes,' just tell him, 'I'm not in love with you yet and I don't like to pretend.'" AUSSIES BAR BRIDGES IF U. S. DEPORTS HIM

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21 (INS)—Australia will refuse to admit Harry Bridges if the United States government is successful in proving the alien-born longshore leader of the Pacific Coast is subject to deportation as a Communist.

This was the prediction left in San Francisco today by Richard Hughes, the editor-in-chief of Australia's consolidated press service and a distinguished authority on the South Pacific and Far East.

Before boarding a New York bound airlines Hughes told International News Service:

"This present deportation hearing for Bridges is rather curious in one respect — if the United States proves Bridges was or is an out-and-out member of the Communist party Australia will not take him back.

"We have passed a rigid law banning Communists and the Communist party."

The Australian authority, who has interviewed virtually all Japan's leading statesmen, declared that although Nippon's navy outnumbers the United States fleet in capital ships, the Japanese navy high command has no desire to tangle with the American fleet.

Legion Heads Drive to Ban Orson Welles' Broadcasts

By WALTER NAUGHTON
Special to the Boston Evening American

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., April 21—Prepared to voice the disapproval of California's 68,000 American Legionnaires against subversive radio broadcasts, State Legion leaders arrived here for their semi-annual department executive committee sessions.

They were met by a new flood of resolutions and statements forwarded from Legion posts and members who added their protests to the nationwide uprising against broadcasts over the Columbia Broadcasting System by the Free Company, featuring Orson Welles.

Six additional Los Angeles Legion posts sent new resolutions of complaints, asking for action against the broadcasts. Still another came from Post 339 in Ventura.

Eyes of the nation's veterans were turned on later sessons to be held here—the first important gathering of Legion officials since the outbreak of the storm of protests against the Free Company broadcasts.

California Legionnaires, through action of their executive committee, will be the spearhead for the campaign against the presentations by Welles and the others of his band. The programs have been assailed as "decidedly un-American" in letters from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

Deer Isle Hens Show Profit, Donahue Says

The $20,000 hennery at Deer Island House of Correction has not been "abandoned" because so many eggs were stolen—instead it is operating at a profit of $300 to $400 a month on the sale of poultry to city institutions.

That was Penal Institution Commissioner Joseph A. Donahue's answer today to the week-end report of the Boston Finance Commission charging that vandalism and theft are taking the amazing toll of $1,000,000 annually from taxpayers' pockets. The Finance Commission report listed Donahue's hennery as "abandoned."

On a further charge that $800 worth of machinery had "vanished," the Commissioner said that in 1933 two light pieces of machinery used to perforate leather became outmoded and were put aside. They may have been taken, or they may have been sold with a large amount of junk disposed of that year, the commissioner said.

"The Fin Com investigated that in 1937 and found the two pieces missing then."

The report also cited broken street lights replaced at a cost of $75,000 last year and damage to school property alone in excess of $245,000.

ADMITS EGG LOSS

"The hennery is not abandoned," declared the Commissioner. "On the contrary, we're making real money in selling poultry to the city institutions. Our chief business is meat rather than eggs. We are showing a profit of $300 to $400 a month."

Donahue said that with 6000 to 7000 birds there has been a loss of eggs but a new central-aisle hennery now being constructed is expected to reduce that loss.

"With the present series of short cross-aisles, it is impossible to watch inmates working there. They have been stealing eggs and eating them. The new house will correct that situation."

SALE OF FOWL

The commissioner called attention to the sale of fowl to the City Hospital, the sanitarium in Mattapan and Long Island Hospital in Boston Harbor as substantiating his accounting of gains.

As a result of the Fin. Com. charges Mayor Tobin ordered all law enforcement agencies into action today to investigate the sources of loss.

In surveying the damage done to schools the Finance Commission declared that after a Junior Police party in the Sarah Greenwood School it was discovered forbidden rooms had been entered and desks smashed.

At a similar party in the William E. Russell School six settees were broken into kindling, one was pitched into the school yard and backs were torn off opera chairs in the auditorium, it was stated.

ANIMALS RELEASED

The commission report states that the Park Department is most victimized by vandalism and cites an instance where the gates of five corrals were opened at Franklin Park Zoo, permitting Aoudads, Thars, White Fallow Deer, a Llama and a Guanaco to mingle. A $200 Aoudad was fatally gored by a Thar and other animals badly injured in the resulting melee

GIANT DOUGLAS BOMBER POISED FOR FLIGHT

SANTA MONICA, Cal., April 21 (AP)—Four years and 9000 blueprints after construction started, Douglas Aircraft's famed B-19, is ready for test flights.

Rolled out onto Clover airport for final tuneups before testing its wings, probably late this week, the B-19 poised like a dragon fly on an ant hill—an ant hill swarming with 6-foot men who looked tiny from the top of the rudder, 42 feet, 9 inches above the ground.

Seven hundred thousand man hours went into construction of the new giant of the airways, which was built to fly 7750 miles nonstop—to Europe and back.

The bomber has a wing spread of 212 feet, an overall length of 132 feet.

It has a top speed of 210 miles an hour, cruising speed of 186.

The largest previous American-built land plane was Douglas' DC-4, whose measurements were 138 feet wing spread and a 2200-mile cruising range. The Boeing XB-18 is larger, with a spread of 153 feet.

Douglas didn't disclose the cost of the B-19 but it spent $2,500,000 on the DC-4. Maybe that'll give you an idea. The DC-4 was sold to the Japanese government and reports say it cracked up in Nippon.

The B-19 fairly bristles with guns but the number is a military secret. Its bomb capacity is 18 tons.

Its empty weight is nearly 42 tons—83,253 pounds. Loaded to capacity it can carry another 41 tons. It requires a normal flight crew of 10 and has sleeping accommodations for eight of them.

CIO Union Ousts 2 Red Officials

CAMDEN, N. J., April 20 (AP)—Two officers of the Shipyard Workers' Union at the Maryland Drydock Co. of Baltimore, Md., have been expelled for Communist activity, the CIO Industrial Union of Marine and Shipbuilding Workers of America announced today.

John Green, international president, identified them as Charles Edward Dorland, president of the Baltimore union, and Carl Bradley, business agent.

Their expulsion came after a trial before the CIO Union's general executive board Saturday and Sunday. The action was described by the union as the first of its kind in the history of the union, which claims 70,000 members.

A statement issued by the union said the two men were "found guilty of using their official position in the local union to promote the aims and policies of the Communist party to the detriment of the union."

LIEUT.-COL. RALPH RICHARDS
Promotion Announced

Maj. Richards Made Lt.-Col., Given New Post

Promotion of Maj. Ralph G. Richards to the rank of Lieut.-Col. in charge of all quartermaster construction in Zone One, which includes all New England, was announced over the week-end at the Army Base, South Boston.

Col. Richards is credited by Army officials with an outstanding job since he was appointed to the post created in January, which was designed to increase speed in construction of living quarters, mess halls, hospitals and other essential construction.

Working under the exclusive control of Gen. Brehon Somervell, Chief of the Construction Division in the office of the Quartermaster Gen. in Washington, Col. Richards has eliminated many bottlenecks and accelerated building at Camp Edwards, Ft. Devens and other posts.

He is credited with being the man who made it possible for Gen. Woodruff, commanding the First Corps Area, to make the statement that no soldier in New England would sleep in a tent during the cold months of this past winter.

Red Cross Relief Hits $27,000,000

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP) The American Red Cross has expended almost $27,000,000 on war relief since the invasion of Poland, Norman H. Davis reported today, with Britain the largest single beneficiary.

Davis, Red Cross chairman, told the opening session of the organization's annual convention that the relief extended to Britain exceeded $13,000,000 and that approximately 23 ships a month were carrying Red Cross supplies to the besieged island.

President Roosevelt, in a message to the convention, wrote that the foreign war relief work of the Red Cross "has brought a measure of hope to a distressed world."

Mr. Roosevelt also stressed the fact that the "Red Cross has a special place in our defense program," the importance of which should not be minimized.

Davis, in his address, said that the nation's vast preparedness effort necessitated an increase in Red Cross activities.

FIRE PERIL MAY SHUT ALL FORESTS IN STATE

State Conservation Commissioner Raymond J. Kenney declared today that unless rain falls before Wednesday he will ask the Governor and Council to issue a proclamation closing state forests.

Such a proclamation would prohibit fishermen, campers and the general public from entering the forests.

The commissioner's warning followed a series of devastating forest fires yesterday, which he attributed to carelessness and which caused damage of several hundred thousand dollars.

Following discovery of a "fire bomb" in the vicinity of Camp Edwards, officers started search for a forest firebug believed to have set "scores" of dozen blazes in that district.

A squad of five soldiers and a corporal from Camp Edwards fire department started a patrol of camp boundaries.

The fire bomb was found by Dr. Julius Kelley, superintendent of the Pocasset Sanatorium and Army medical officer.

Drama upon drama was enacted with women among the hardiest of the fire fighters, as the fires swept Leominster, Pepperell, Burlington, Billerica, Wilmington, Westwood, Maynard, Uxbridge, Dover, Northbridge, Webster, Rutland, Acton, Holmfield, Millville, Methuen and Baldwinsville.

At Wilmington, many women refused to quit the battle lines when a forest fire roared four miles from North Woburn and threatened to trap residents of the Cook's Corner section.

Fire which was checked at the Fort Devens reservation after sweeping over eight square miles of Leominster, Lancaster and Lunenburg, destroyed the $10,000 home and outbuildings of Charles Stratton in Harvard st., Leominster, and killed 30 chickens and a cow. It also leaped across the highway and destroyed a garage and machine shop of Clesson Poirier, valued at $1000.

Fires raged during the day in Rutland, North Andover, Dover, Woburn, Wilmington, Leominster and Baldwinsvile. In the last named town, the home of Mrs. Corinne Morey of Worcester was destroyed at a loss of $5000, and 30 houses took fire but were extinguished with only slight damage.

Over 100,000 Acres Burn in Eight States

By the Associated Press

More than 100,000 acres of woodlands in eight eastern states, parched by unseasonably dry weather, had been devastated by forest fires today and in some states—New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts and Vermont—sporadic blazes still remained stubbornly out of control.

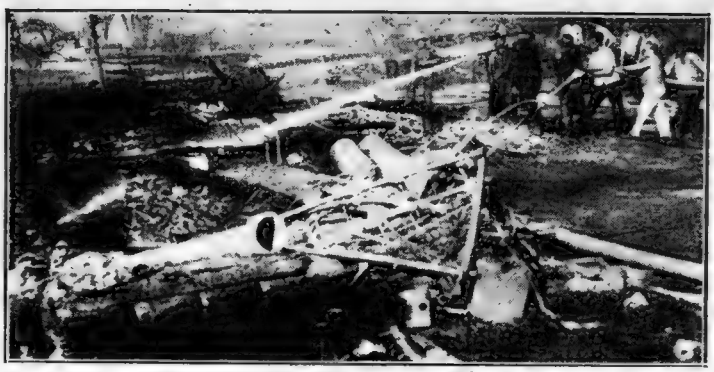
With the flaming woodlands went many farms and homes, their destruction helping to send the total loss into the millions.

New Jersey, the hardest hit, counted 40,500 blackened acres. New York did not estimate its loss, but several square miles in Rockland County alone had been gobbled up like cordwood 1000 acres were burning in Sullivan County, and Orange County listed many smaller fires.

Massachusetts saw 5000 acres devoured and Virginia reported five times that much. Connecticut, West Virginia, Maryland and Vermont had not estimated their loss.

FREIGHTER AGROUND

MANTEO, N. C., April 21 (AP)—The Clevelander, a 1460-ton vessel owned by the National Motorship Corp. of Wilmington, Del., went aground early today 15 miles north of Cape Hatteras.



LEOMINSTER HOME DESTROYED—Ignited by flames from a forest fire, the home of Charles Stratton in Harvard st. was completely destroyed. Here firemen play hose on the smouldering embers of the house . . . a total loss. Blaze also killed 30 chickens and a cow as well as razing other buildings on the Stratton property. NAZI PLANES OVER BELFAST ARE PELTED WITH POTATOES

While German Stukas dived down on Belfast, the crew of the Belgian freighter Ville d'Anvers pelted the divers with Irish potatoes, the crew revealed today on arrival of the ship in Boston with $10,000 cases of Scotch whiskey.

Bu the crew of Ville d' Anvers wer only testing with the potatoes their steam bomb thrower—and as soon as they found the pressure to be all right, they subatituted high explosive bombs for the spuds.

These are bombs time dto explode three seconds after leaving the thrower, and the crew didn't want them just lobbing up because of lack of pressure, and then falling back in their mids!

The bombs, they said, have a devastating effect up to 1800 feet in the air and are designed for use against Stukas.

None came close enough, however, to the ship tied up at her Belfast wharf, although bombs burst on a coal tar plant and a margarine plant nearby.

The engineer of the freighter said he was at a movie when the air raid signal sounded on that night, which marked the first real attack on the Scottish seaport.

He raced for the ship, got on his steel helmet and had not had it on long when he was sent spinning by a sharpnel piece which, he later discovered, had dented in the helmet's side.

The men of the freighter, which brought in nine race horses for New York, as well as a valuable bulldog, said her sister ship, Ville d'Liege, was recently torpedoed and lost off Scotland.

down Sunday—14 of them over this seat of ancient democracy in a single battle with a "very large formation" of Nazi dive-bombers and fighters.

Many others of the raiders were crippled, the British said, but admitted destruction of seven of their own fighters, with four of the pilots. (A German radio broadcast said 11 British planes were shot down over Greece yesterday.)

The British took their new positions after the Germans penetrated a Greek-held pass at Grevena in the center of the Mount Olympus line Friday.

DEFEAT ON RIGHT

The retirement was said to be "in conformity" with the "movement of the Greek army" on the left.

Australians and New Zealanders were declared to have fought a "brilliantly conducted" covering maneuver, exacting immense losses among the Germans.

The Germans have taken Karditsa, 40 miles north of Lamia, after passing T..rikkala.

The Greeks admitted they also had withdrawn as a result of a defeat on the right of their line, but said they were holding their new positions and had stemmed the Italian attacks on the northwest.

Meanwhile, Emmanuel Tsouderous was named Premier to head the new cabinet announced yesterday, formed as a result of the suicide Friday of Premier Alexandros Korizis.

NEW GOVERNMENT

The new government was announced as the Greeks acknowledged that the German drive on the east had made a new dent in the Allied line and King George II had called upon the nation to fight "to the very end."

Tsouderos had been named minister of foreign affairs and finance and provisional minister of economy in the cabinet formed yesterday by Admiral Alexander Sakellariou as vice-premier and the King in the dual role of monarch and premier.

the death house. Everything had been done, said the warden, that could be done up to the present—and he did not expect any further news today.

This would give Brooks, the warden told him, time to prepare for tonight.

"Thank you, warden, for telling me," the condemned man replied. "I'll be all right."

Asked then if he had any requests to make, Brooks answered:

"Not at the present time."

Fr. Farrell remained with the condemned man after the warden had gone.

At times during his last day, however, Brooks played chess and checkers with his guards in the death house.

He received Chaplain Farrell three times yesterday and conversed on current events and religious subjects with the priest.

Thursday Gov. Saltonstall after talking with Brooks' two sorrowful sisters, Mrs. Rose Keating and Mrs. Florence Pickard of New York, announced he would not intervene in the execution, nor grant commutation for which the prisoner and his sisters pleaded.

Since being moved to the death house Warden Lanagan announced Brooks' real name has been revealed as Leo Rousseau of Brooklyn.

New Tax Plan Heard Behind Closed Doors

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—The treasury submitted a detailed program to the House Ways and Means Committee today for raising $3,500,000,000 in new taxes, but Chairman Doughton (D.), of North Carolina, declined to divulge the plan. He said he did not wish to "alarm the people over something that might not happen."

The committee, he added, would approve only as much of the program "as we think is wise." The meeting was behind closed doors.

Doughton said Treasury officials and the staff of the joint committee on internal revenue taxation, an instrument of Congress, differed on "some points" as to how the tremendous sum should be raised.

The committee, he asserted, would allow the two staffs a few days to "get together" on methods.

The Treasury's proposal was presented by John L. Sullivan, assistant secretary. Doughton said that Colin Stim, chief of staff of the joint committee, and his aides, would make suggestions at another closed committee meeting tomorrow.

The chairman told reporters that no vote was taken on whether the committee would approve the Treasury's plan for financing government expenditures during the fiscal year 1942 on a basis of two-thirds taxes an done-third borrowing.

Doughton and several other Democratic and Republican Congressional tax leaders approved the principle of such a plan last week at a conference with Sec. Morgenthau.

Morgenthau said the estimated budget for the year was $19,000,000,000, meaning that more than $12,000,000,000,000 would have to be raised in taxes under the program.

Wave of Holdups Believed Nipped

A wave of holdups in Chelsea, Revere and Everett was believed near a solution today by Chelsea police with the arrest of two men in connection with the armed robbery of a diner.

Sergt. Herbert Hannabury said he believed the men were the same outfit responsible for a series of holdups in the three cities, and who last week shot at a clerk in a Chelsea store.

Yesterday morning, two men, one armed with pistol, entered the Wellington diner on Eastern ave. and forced Countermen Ralph Lutsenia and Wilbur Pike to hand over $75.

Bay State Ages In 1940 Census

WASHINGTON, April 21 (AP)—The population of Massachusetts "aged considerably" between 1930 and 1940, the Federal Census Bureau announced today.

Preliminary data from the 1940 census of population showed an increase in the proportion of persons 65 years of age or over, and a decline in the proportion of persons under 20.

Women again outnumbered men in the state, the figures showed. There were 95 males per 100 females last year, which compares with 95.1 males per 100 females in the 1930 census.

Although the Massachusetts population increased by 67,107 persons in the 10-year period, the Census Bureau reported that the number of persons migrating out of the state exceeded the number of those migrating into the state by about 66,000.

Malden Couple On Honeymoon

Miss Charlotte Jane Hureau and Edward Oberlander, both of Malden, were honeymooning today in New York and Washington.

They were married Saturday in St. Joseph's Church, Malden, at which the Rev. L. Kearns was celebrant.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip A. Hureau, of 1359 Eastern ave., and the bridegroom the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Oberlander of 189 Eastern ave. The couple were attended by Miss Rita Hureau, a sister of the bride and Benjamin Oberlander, the bridegroom's brother.

LONDON, April 21 (AP) — A daughter was born today at Bude, Cornwall, to the former Althea Dawes of Chicago, wife of Sub-Lieut. Colin Stamp, youngest son of the late Lord and Lady Stamp, who were killed by a bomb last Wednesday

CHARGING her former husband, Film Comedian Oliver Hardy, owes her $21,625 in back alimony, Myrtle Lee Hardy (here) today had filed suit in Los Angeles. She said that under an agreement in April, 1937, the filmster agreed to pay her $250 a week for the rest of her life, or as long as he earned over $1000 a week. His income is still above that figure, she says, but she's received nothing since February, 1939.

F. D. Aid Sought In Motors Threat

By the Associated Press

What to do about a strike threat at plants of the General Motors Corp. and the contract deadlock which has halted soft coal production were the two big defense labor problems which beset official Washington today.

Gov. Murray D Van Wagoner of Michigan strung 11 to talk over the General Motors situation with President Roosevelt during the day. The CIO United Automobile Workers served a twenty strike notice last week against the giant corporation which has millions of dollars of defense contracts. The union wants a union shop and higher wages.

Steel circles already were beginning to feel the pinch of a coal shortage which resulted when CIO's United Mine Workers of America failed to reach a contract agreement with southern mine operators.

Army Hints Leniency in AWOL Case

No drastic action will be taken against Corp. Charles Grinell, son of a prominent Beacon Hill family, who went AWOL and turned up over the weekend after a six day search Army officials indicated today.

Corp. Grinell, attached to the Yankee Division at Camp Edwards, was found mentally and physically exhausted by a roadhouse owner on Argilla rd., Ipswich near the summer estate of his father, Frank W. Grinell, prominent Boston attorney.

The proprietor, according to officers, recognized the young soldier immediately after he showed up and asked for a glass of milk and a sandwich.

While police did not learn where he had been in the week of his absence, Co. John T. Agnew, regiment commander at Camp Edwards, said he was glad the young soldier had been found and that the incident was not "too serious."

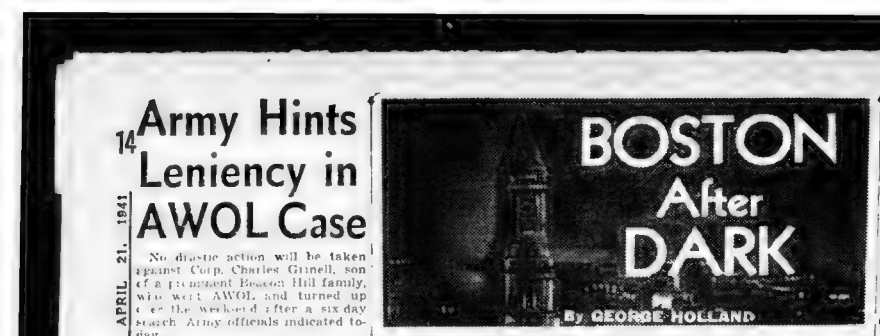
After learning that the youth was not in the best of health, Col. Agnew added:

"We won't worry about any punishment now. We'll investigate first and try to get him back to the battery in good health."

Police indicated the young man may be able to return to camp within a few days.

CHURCHILL SEES LONG WAR

LONDON, April 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Winston Churchill told Czech soldiers today that Britain is in for an "undoubtedly long and formidable war."



WHAT KEEPS MIKE TODD scooting from New York to Boston to Chicago to New York to Boston? . . . We suspect that it is a dicker for the Boston Garden or the Boston Opera House . . . the boy-wonder of the World's Fair (and producer of "The Hot Mikado") reputedly is minting money in Chicago with a huge cabaret, where it is possible (but not probable) to enjoy one's self at a maximum expenditure of 25 cents per evening.

YOUNG MR. TODD BECAME a legendary figure as the lad who out-Barnumed Billy Rose in the second year of the Flushing Fair . . . As operator of the Music Hall, Gay New Orleans, the Dancing Campus and a few freak shows, Michael the Munificent had chartered airplanes flying fresh pompano and oysters Rockefeller north from the Sazerac Belt . . . Then he took over the Chicago Rainbow Gardens, where the ringside is a drive and a putt from the cloakroom . . . The spot is cleaning up.

NOW THAT THE NEW YORK Madison Square Garden has been delivered to a syndicate pledged to operate it as a summertime ballroom-cabaret, the possibility must have appealed to Mr. Todd—as it has to others—that a similar arrangement might convert the cavernous Boston Garden into a dance-a-cade (or whatever they might call it).

YET THE BOSTON OPERA HOUSE is also a possibly enticing prospect for the ambitious Mr. Todd . . . Jacob J. (Jake) Shubert, having lost the Metropolitan Opera season, has been talking with Mickey Redstone of the Mayfair about leasing the erstwhile temple of tenors . . . It costs about $21,000 a year to pay carrying charges on the Opera House . . . He would talk, it seems logical, to an impresario of Mr. Todd's proportions with equal readiness.

THE BOSTON BEES NOW have almost as many principal stockholders as the famous hit "Arsenic and Old Lace" (which has 21) . . . May the Bees prove as big a hit at the box office . . . Mr. and Mrs. Winchells boy Walter (Mr. Winchell, Sr., never gets any "ball me") found his research volunteers alert and on the job when he identified Charles F. Adams as the "former Secretary of the Navy" in announcing the sale of the Bees on the air . . . The correction was made a few moments later and Suffolk Downs got a plug.

IT WAS LESS THAN A YEAR ago when we were reviled quite caustically by the veteran showman, George Hunt (of the Bees' staff), for referring to Mr. Adams as the owner of the Bees . . . As our dressing down took place in the office of the Colonial Theater, with Manager Al Sheehan and the box-office staff in hearing distance, we would appreciate a semi-public explanation from Mr. Hunt as to what he meant when he denied that Mr. Adams was connected in any manner with the ballclub.

IF POSSESSION OF 73 per cent of the stock doesn't connect a man with a ballclub what status does that give Suffolk Downs? . . . Answer: Enough cash will buy the control of Suffolk Downs, too . . . And don't be surprised if Bing Crosby, who was prevented from buying the Bees by Judge Landis, isn't a prospective buyer of the East Boston track's control . . . Suffolk may well be the "eastern racetrack" which New York columnists are talking about in recent items about The Bing.

IF ANYTHING OF THE SORT should develop, you can scratch Little Beans and other horses wearing the colors of Mrs. Louise Palladino from future Suffolk entries . . . An intense dislike of the famous Hollywood "groaner" has been nurtured by Rocky Palladino, trainer of Little Beans since Mr. Crosby slighted the Boston man—perhaps unintentionally—at Santa Anita in 1938.

"ARSENIC AND OLD LACE" (as we should have mentioned above) is slated for a Boston showing and a summer run . . . With companies thriving in New York and Chicago, a third troupe will be organized forthwith, according to authentic advices just arrived . . . The management is the same as that of "Life With Father," and negotiations are on at this very hour for the Boston booking . . . But Messrs. Oscar Serlin, Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse will play ony the Colonial or Repertory Theaters (they say) . . . There should be little difficulty getting either house for a prospective summer run.

MORTON DOWNEY is in better voice—we think—than he was in his early prime . . . The silver pipes of the personable New York Irishman have taken on more of the robusto than formerly, and he uses his falsetto less than in the old days . . . Morton is the most willing worker in the business . . . Records are crashing at the Mayfair, and it is a shame that the engagement can't be extended at least another week . . . Like so many of the sincere artists who sprouted in the fantastic twenties, Mr. Downey has a wholesome respect for audiences . . . As inconspicuously as possible, Morton always blesses himself before striding on to the floor to sing . . . But if he's anchored with company, and the reverent sign cannot be concealed, Morton goes through the rite anyway.

POPE PLEADS FOR MERCY IN WORLD AT WAR

ROME, April 21 (INS) Pope Pius XII, receiving in audience student members of the Catholic Action Organization, addressed them on the woes which betide the world.

The Pope said:

"The world is upset and torn asunder by struggles and wars.

"In the present hour, the ferments of evil seem to overcome the ferments of good.

"The present season is one of dizzying storms of a tremendous vortex.

"This clash of passions is defying the lessons of humility and charity.

"It is most necessary that we should not take pride in that which is weak and unedifying.

"Our duty is to show self-control and heroism in the face of great trials and dangers.

"True valor requires that the victors should show charity toward the vanquished.

"The world does not need violence but love; not vileness but humility.

"All men, both strong and weak, are brothers.

"The virtues of humility and charity belong to the enemy as well.

"Charity does not permit injustice even on the field of battle.

"Despite the greatest reverses, it is forbidden that the fighting be cruel against the innocent or that the guilty be punished beyond the limits of justice."

Ferdinand Tablet, Seized by Soldier, Is Given to Hitler

BERLIN, April 21 (AP)—A dispatch from Hitler's headquarters on the Balkan front reported today that a memorial tablet taken from Sarajevo, commemorating the assassination of Austrian Archduke Franz Ferdinand June 28, 1914, was turned over to Hitler yesterday by one of the first German soldiers to enter the Yugoslav city.

It was announced the tablet would be exhibited at the German army museum as "proof of the Serbs' criminal blood-guilt in the World War."

British Press Now Fears Defeat in Greece Near

LONDON, April 21 (AP)—The British press more and more openly discussed the possibility of defeat in Greece as reliable observers today gloomily studied the campaign there and the intensification of the German diplomatic campaign.

Britain's action in sending troops to Iraq was taken as a visible indication of the official belief that the battle is nearing the Suez and the oil fields of the Midde East.

The press, almost in one voice, warned against letting the British force in the Middle East be destroyed.

Hitler's "real aim," it was said, was to use his armies and diplomacy, in lieu of a fleet, to win not merely the battle in the Balkans, but to trap the British Mediterranean fleet and Middle Eastern army.

SPAIN CAUSES ANXIETY

Thus he would weaken the defense of Britain and knife her empire lifeline

Observers viewed the unfriendly tone of the Spanish press and reports of prolonged cabinet meetings in Spain as a result of Axis pressure.

They said a German march to Gibraltar would not help Hitler much in his present campaign in the eastern Mediterranean, but it might give him new ports in Spain and Africa to fight the battle of the Atlantic.

Supporting the view that Hitler's aim is to destroy British power in the Mediterranean, qualified sources declared the loss of the battle in Greece in itself would "by no means be conclusive."

HOLD AT TOBRUK

If Britain is able to hold a portion of North Africa, including her naval base at Alexandria, one source declared, "Hitler would have a devil of a time closing up Suez and Gibraltar."

But he admitted the latter is "not impregnable."

In this connection observers attached significance to the increasingly steady stand the British are making at Tobruk and Salum in Libya and Egypt.

Thyssen Dies In Nazi Camp

LONDON, April 21 (INS)—Information has reached Vichy from Munich that Fritz Thyssen, noted German industrialist, had died suddenly in a concentration camp, according to unconfirmed reports in London today.

Thyssen, a fabulously wealthy steel magnate, was one of the original backers of Adolf Hitler's Nazi party. However, shortly after outbreak of the present war he fell from favor and fled the Reich to take up residence first in Switzerland and then in France, where he was caught when that nation collapsed under the German blitzkrieg.

French Retake Ship From British

VICHY, France, April 21 (AP)—Reports reaching Vichy today from the German-occupied zone of France said French warships had "recaptured" the 4278-ton French freighter Fort De France from the British off Gibraltar and brought her to Casablanca, French Morocco, a week ago today

According to a report in a Paris newspaper, the ship had been stopped by a British warship, which headed her for Gibraltar. French warships were said to have intercepted the Fort De France and forced a British prize crew to change the course to the Moroccan port. This account said the freighter carried supplies for France's civilian population.

Rome Has Eyes On Montenegro

ROME, April 21 (AP)—Italy's intention to annex Montenegro, native land of Italian Queen Elena, as well as Yugoslavia's Dalmatia territory was indicated today by publication of a telegram in which the provisional administrative committee asked Premier Mussolini to include Montenegro in the "Fascist empire."

Belfast Throngs View Rites for Raid Dead

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, April 21 (AP)—Thousands lined the streets in the heart of Belfast today to view the funeral cortege for unidentified victims of Tuesday night's air raid.

High church and state dignitaries and military representatives attended. Business was suspended along the route of the procession.

HUGHES PLANS TO RETIRE IN JUNE, REPORT

WASHINGTON, April 21 (INS) — Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes will retire from the Supreme Court at the close of the present term in June, an authoritative source predicted today.

The Chief Justice, who celebrated his 79th birthday ten days ago, is described as at last ready to seek retirement, after many false rumors, because of the insistence of his wife that they spend their remaining days in quiet seclusion away from office life. The Chief Justice and Mrs. Hughes, who has been ailing for months, have been married more than 52 years.

The inner circle of President Roosevelt's advisers, anticipating the Chief Justice's retirement, are booming Attorney General Robert Jackson, of New York, as his successor.

Other high New Dealers, however, are advocating the promotion of Associate Justice Harlan F. Stone of New York, a Coolidge appointee and the court's senior justice in years of service who has staunchly supported the constitutionality of New Deal legislation ever since Mr. Roosevelt came into power.

'Fantasia' Now In 13th Week

Walt Disney's "Fantasia" picture, now on the eve of its 13th week at the Majestic Theater, is in a class by itself. Nothing like it was ever produced before. Pictorially it is a brilliant achievement, with colorings beyond compare and with many a fantastic touch as well as many a fillip of humor.

This musical extravaganza combines a full symphony concert with Disney's visual interpretations of famous works played by the Philadelphia Orchestra, with Leopold Stokowski conducting. Dukas' "Sorcerer's Apprentice," Beethoven's "Pastoral Symphony," Tchaikovsky's "Nutcracker Suite" and Ponchielli's "Dance of the hours" are popular highspots.

There are two performances daily, with all seats reserved.

Ned Walsh Tops Casino's Comics

With Ned Walsh, oldtime burlesque comic, as chief wag, and not one but a brace of beauties to lend eye-appeal, the new Ed Ryan production opening today at the Casino Theater on Hanover st. promises lively entertainment.

Blending their comedy with Walsh will be Frank X. Silk, favorite funny-man with local burlesque fans; Bert Marx and straight-man Bob Rogers.

Newest in the Casino's beauty parade is Helen Green, whose dancing and model-posing are rated high on the burlesque circuit. Irene O'Day, daring dancer from staid Philadelphia, remains a second week. Remaining another week is Petite Carroll. The Oriental dancer, Valita, is one of the new show's newcomers.

The Casino's 30 dancing-dolls will present a varied and colorful program of production numbers. Rounding out the bill will be two recent screen releases.

Stella Mills Hit at Globe; Marie Cord Arrives Friday

Only four more days remain in which to see Stella Mills, burlesque queen of the current attraction at the Globe Theater, along with such stellar stunners as Phyllis Vaughan and Irma Vogelee, and the king of burlesque comics, slap-happy Joe DeRita.

Next Friday the Globe will present an entirely new attraction headed by magnetic Marie Cord, a South American siren, with a good will complex, and "Looney" Lewis to ruffle up the fun fest.

LOEW'S 'ZIEGFELD GIRL' PROVES MONSTER MUSICAL HIT; ABOUNDS IN TALENT

Lavish Scenes Feature Film

By PEGGY DOYLE

Metro went "all out" for "Ziegfeld Girl," monster musical production now lutinng the multitudes to Loew's State and Orpheum theaters with its promise of glamour, gaiety and 1940's Academy winner Jimmy Stewart.

When the marquee offers Judy Garland, Hedy Lamarr, Lana Turner, Tony Martin and Jimmy Stewart in one picture . . . even if they were only reciting the Congressional Record in relays . . . capacity business is inevitable.

But when MGM goes the whole hog in the way of background with a glittering, lavish Ziegfeldian production dressed up with a dozen 14-carat American beauties and, for heart interest, presents cross-section closeups into the personal dramas of a trio of the loveliest "Ziegfeld girls" since Dolores, Olive Thomas, Jessie Reed and those other glorified lovelies of a more carefree era, then a holdover week is indicated.

For "Ziegfeld Girl" gives the customer a lot for his money . . . too much, in fact, for the more discriminating movie goer. Like the sentence a sentence ago, it is much too long. In the two and a half hours of its unreeling, you are virtually on a merry-go-round that gives you kaleidoscopic peeks into the lives of too many people to whet your interest in any of them.

No sooner are you initiated into the Brooklyn household of Lana Turner, brother Jackie Cooper and mother Fay Holden, than you are transported to the dove-cote of Hedy Lamarr and Philip Dorn, who are married, deeply in love but terribly reluctant to speak up and say it.

While you are trying to figure out why they don't give out a few words that will explain everything (the while the pew-holders are infuriated at this movie reticence), you are rushed at Clipper speed to Charlie Winninger's diggings. He plays an old-school vaudevillian and cute Judy Garland, his song-and-dance dotter, who modifies her streamlined talents . . . and all but misses her Broadway destiny . . . rather than hurt the old man.

Judy's and Lana's private lives capture your interest but the script never clarifies the characters played by Lamarr and Dorn. Their drama is nothing more than a case-history and, except for the inevitable breathstopping effect of Hedy's beauty might well be dispensed with in the interests of "Ziegfeld Girl."

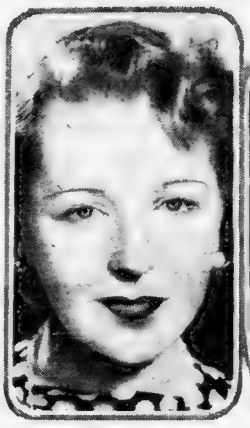
As the Brooklyn blonde who burns the candles at both ends, Lana achieves a lovely light but briefly. Throughout she gives shining performances as the contrary "Flatbush" (her backstage nickname) who wants fur coats and her truck-driver Jimmy Stewart too.

• • •

The Garland youngster again adds luster to her name as the pint-size Ziegfeld star. Winninger's Gallagher and Al Shean's Shean in the big "Ziegfeld Follies" opening night number are pleasantly nostalgic. Stewart, who is never seen except in girl-friend Lana Turner's Flatbush home, or with his truck-driving pals, gives one of the picture's most authentic, effective portrayals.

Nor should Edward Everett Horton's No. 1 Broadway press agent (suggested by the late, famous Ziegfeld p. a. Will Page) be overlooked in the merit awards. Outstanding is the word for him.

Out of literally tons of sequins, the pride of thousands of de-plumed ostriches, countless bolts of the costliest lames, silks and satins, Adrian has concocted costumes wondrously fantastic and weirdly beautiful enough to rate Grade-A rating even in a Ziegfeld dress-rehearsal.



MARGARET BANNERMAN will appear with Cornelia Otis Skinner in "Theater," opening next Monday at the Plymouth.

ANNE FRANCINE has a featured role in "Rose Marie," now in its final week at the Shubert. It is musical hit's fourth visit to a Boston stage.

SONDRA JOHNSON portrays Pearl in "Tobacco Road," which tonight starts its second and farewell week at the Plymouth.

Cornelia Skinner Started Buck on His Career

The announcement of John Golden's long-heralded production of "Theater" which comes to this city for two weeks, beginning Monday, April 28, at the Wilbur, with Cornelia Otis Skinner in the starring role, occurs almost synchronously with the publication release of Frank ("Bring 'Em Back Alive") Buck's newest book, "All In A Lifetime," thus recalling an unusual circumstance in the first meeting between Buck and Miss Skinner.

Strange as it may seem, credit for setting him off on his great career of Taming-Wild-Things belongs to none other than John Golden's newest star.

About the time Buck was 15 years old, the great American actor, Otis Skinner, was playing an engagement in Chicago and registered at the same hotel where Young Frank Buck was employed as a bell hop. With him, Mr. Skinner had brought his infant daughter, Cornelia.

Her yowling cries were heard with such frequency that the harried Otis Skinner, in desperation, asked young bell-hop Buck if there wasn't something he could do to quiet the squawking baby.

After careful deliberation, Buck hit on the idea of wheeling the baby back and forth down the hotel corridors. The infant's cries subsided with miraculous speed — almost immediately the howling child had become a pacified and gently cooing cherub.

Buck recalls this incident and points to it with justifiable pride as his first experience in wild animal training.

Stage Playbill

CURRENT

SHUBERT — "ROSE MARIE," the popular Friml tunes well sung by Alexander Gray and Nancy McCord well aided by a prancing chorus. As far as the customers are concerned it is the happiest sort of revival.

Nazis Report Third Party Acts for Greece in Truce

zer divisions were approaching the railway town of Lamia and historic Thermopylae pass, where in ancient times Leonidas and 300 Spartans fought the Persians to a standstill in one of history's famous battles.

Below Larissa and Trikkala, German authorities said, German airplanes dealt the retreating British forces a terrific strafing.

An official announcement said that yesterday German planes "swooped upon hidden bays" in the island of Euboea and hammered British transport vessels, damaging one 6000-ton vessel and another 7000-ton ship so seriously that they were left listing heavily.

In the port of Volos, it was claimed, another 8000-ton transport was gutted by fire after an aerial attack.

German quarters said it was evident that the German blitzkrieg in Greece is now spelling the "final doom" of the Anglo-Greek forces and is slicing the various armies apart by shooting panzer units in various directions to separate the defending forces.

The British expeditionary force was reported being hammered "without mercy" as it raced for an evacuation rendezvous where a "hide and seek" drama between German planes and British transport ships was declared already under way.

UNITS SURRENDER

Individual Hellenic units in Greece were reported capitulating to the Germans one by one, while the Greek forces in Albania were said to have been cut off completely from contact with Greek territory.

British troops are in "wholesale retreat," it was claimed, and their main columns are choking the highway between Larissa and the railway town of Lamia, suffering heavy losses under constant aerial strafing by planes that roar down only 30 feet above the ground and bomb and machine-gun them.

Pursuit of the British-Greek forces south of Larissa ran parallel with "conversations" in some unidentified spot by unrevealed plenipotentiaries over Croatia's final fate and the disposition of the Serbian heritage.

German authorized sources warned correspondents especially about believing British claims of successes in Greece.

For military reasons, however, they added, the full extent of the Greek-British rout could not presently be divulged.

In keeping with the war practice of not revealing the location or names of prominent personalities getting together for a confab, these sources contented themselves with asserting that it is wrong to speak of any "conference" or "conversations."

Naturally, however, the fall of Yugoslavia made necessary "conversations" among the parties interested.

From this it is deductible that the Axis is in touch with Hungary, Rumania and Bulgaria, all of which besides Germany and Italy, have racial minorities in Yugoslavia.

Final Fate of Croatia Now Chief Nazi Problem

BERLIN, April 21 (AP)—High-pressure military and diplomatic activity characterized Germany's struggle for the new order today.

RAF Bombs Nazi Cities, Bases

LONDON, April 21 (AP)—British bombers started large fires in Cologne last night and also raided Dusseldorf and the docks at Brest, on the German-occupied French coast, the air ministry announced today.

Oil stores at Rotterdam and the docks at Dunkirk and Ostend also were bombed, the ministry said.

A heavily laden ship of 3000 tons was hit and left sinking off the coast of Norway and other shipping was attacked off the Dutch coast, it declared, and other aircraft bombed the airdrome near Caen.

Although visibility was poor, the air ministry said, bursts were observed on the quays and near the drydock at Brest, and large fires were started at Cologne.

Air raid sirens shrieked a mid-morning alarm in London, but the all-clear followed 30 minutes later.

In the only activity over Britain yesterday, some bombs fell in east and southwest England in the night, the government said, and two Scottish towns were strafed during the day. A three-year-old boy was reported killed by machine-gun bullets in one Scotch town.

RAF PELTS NAZI-HELD AFRICAN COAST

CAIRO, Egypt, April 21 (AP)—The RAF strewed bombs up and down the Axis-held North African coast in week-end assaults and at Salum, main theater of ground fighting, sparring between opposing patrols continued, the British announced today.

Italian and German troop concentrations, an air field and the Axis bases at Derna, Bengasi and El Gazala were targets of RAF raiders Saturday night and yesterday, the RAF high command said.

With the Salum front, just across the border from Libya in Egypt, still active, the Middle East command said the Tobruk sector, 80 miles from the border, had quieted down.

At Dessie, north of Addis Ababa, the daily communique said fighting was continuing while elsewhere in that East African colony it added that "satisfactory progress has again been made."

Manila Plane Crash Kills Holyoke Man

MANILA, April 21 (AP)—A single-engineed attack plane, disabled by a mid-air collision, crashed near Clark Field, Ft. Statsenburg, today, killing Pvt. Franklin J. Labonte, observer with the 2nd Observation Squadron. Second Lieut. Raymond A. Slean parachuted to safety.

Labonte's home was in Holyoke, Mass.

BAHIA, Brazil, April 21 (INS)—Slight earthquakes shook the region around Rio Banco Saturday and again yesterday, reports reaching Bahia said today.

U. S. Experts Declare Convoy by Navy Legal

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, April 21 (INS)—The State Department has started active consideration of the question of the United States Navy convoying American merchant ships on the high seas, it was learned from an unimpeachable source today.

This is the first time since the outbreak of the European war that the State Department, or any other government department except the Navy, has given serious consideration to this fateful and controversial question.

State Department experts, it was further learned, have decided that it is perfectly legal under both international and domestic law for the United States Navy to convoy American shipping on the high seas, providing those vessels do not enter areas which have been designated by President Roosevelt as combat zones. A ruling to this effect is likely to be issued within the next two weeks.

However, the State Department also takes the position that German warships will have the right under existing circumstances to stop and search American vessels on the high seas and to seize them temporarily if they are found to be carrying contraband. That is a recognized principle of international law which the State Department still respects.

But Germany having the right to do so and actually being able to do so is regarded privately by officials as two different things.

The catch in it insofar as Germany is concerned is that the Nazis do not have sufficient warships on the high seas to risk escorting to a neutral or German port the steady stream of American ships that is soon expected to be carrying war supplies to Africa.

In this connection, the State Department does not recognize the right of German submarines to sink on sight and without warning vessels suspected of carrying contraband destined for the British. That form of unrestricted submarine warfare is considered an outright violation of international law.

The very fact that Germany is resorting to that sort of naval warfare is regarded by authoritative quarters as giving the American government justification for ordering the Navy to convoy American merchant ships any time President Roosevelt deems it advisable to do so.

Under the ruling that is likely to be made by the State Department, the Navy would be considered justified in convoying American ships to the Red sea if the American government considered those vessels in danger of being sunk by German submarines or sea raiders.

have prowled toward our course. Hence, said the first mate, the depth bombs serve the twofold purpose of (1) laying down an undersea barrage which might bag any sub audacious enough to approach within range and, (2) if nothing better to serve as a stern warning to stand well outside the protective, scurrying circle. Wham! Wham! It would, said the mate, be like putting the red end of a cigarette against a child's balloon — complete disintegration. Wham!

BITTER COLD

It was bitter cold and the decks of the Dutchman were encrusted with a film of frozen spray. A penetrating wind from the Arctic seeped through the ship's crevices and numbed the troopers who sat, overcoated and mittened, hugging the electric heaters. But the weather today was allied with the convoy, for a low, black-bellied cloud ceiling closed down like a sheltering lid. Nazi bombers, if they come, would have to start their dives precariously near the sea, risking crashes and the concentrated fire of the convoy's myriad guns.

No need for a Sunderland flying-boat patrol today—those huge aerial yachts which bristle with Vickers machine guns and 37-mm. cannon. Tomorrow maybe!

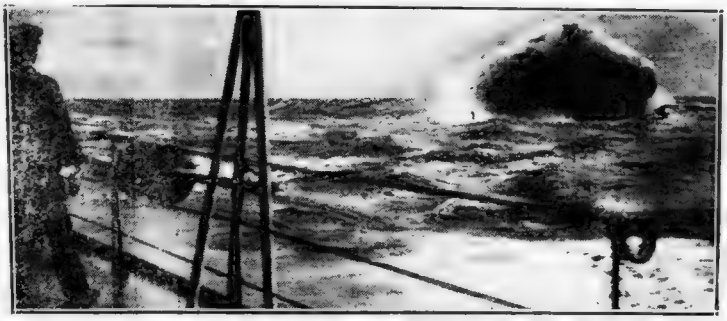
BRILLIANT LIGHT

Among the airforce personnel on the Dutchman is a chunky, sleekly blond youth of 21 who formerly patrolled these waters as a Sunderland pilot and says that U-boats, even in shallow depths are sometimes invisible below these murky seas. The ocean is roiley with frequent storms, heavy precipitation and dull skies. The sun is dim. So subs frequently operate more brazenly here than in the Mediterranean where the seas are transparent and the light more penetrating. "Oxygen Harry of the Ruhr" they call the youth from a kind of happy punch drunk condition for having inhaled so much of the life-giving gas at rarified heights over the German industrial center.

The Dutchman's mate, a gossipy chap, told of an odd happening last night. During the midnight watch a brilliant light suddenly appeared in the wake of a sister transport, flaring brightly for many minutes and disappearing. The transport, said the mate, swerved swiftly to port and cut away from the glow. It was startling and mystifying to those on the Dutchman's bridge, until this morning, when the neighboring ship signalled that one of its safety buoys had broken loose in the sea, setting off an automatic calcium flare as it touched the water. Startling in effect but prosaic in meaning.

Curious, considering our sailing delay and the undoubted ability of Nazi agents to spot convoy departures, strength of escort and personnel that there has been no attempt on us thus far. Indeed Lord Haw-Haw, the renegade Anglo-Nazi broadcaster, made a short wave announcement from Berlin, stating that our convoy had been attacked and the ship bearing the first complement of Empire Plan airmen had been sunk with heavy toll of life. Many of the airmen now on board heard the statement and, naturally, gave Lord Haw-Haw, the heh-heh!

In tomorrow's installment Austen Lake describes more details of this convoy dash through sub-infested waters. Follow this absorbing series in the Boston Evening American.



EN ROUTE TO ENGLAND—"A dome of green water rose from where the charge had exploded and beneath the sea the impact radiated in all directions, an impulse as instant as electricity and with an expansion force of 3,000,000 pounds to the cubic feet" . . . so writes Austen Lake in his thrilling story today.

OVER THE SIDE—"During midday mess the Dutchman's first mate entered the dining room, doffed his cap and announced, 'Attention pliz! If you feel a sudden, bad bump . . . if the ship jumps sideways, sooo! It is ondly a destroyer dropping depth bombs.'"

LETTERS FROM ENGLAND

This is another in a series of letters from Britons to friends and relatives in Greater Boston.

From: Nottinghamshire, England.

To: Mrs. Mildred Walker, 181 Fulton st., Medford.

Dear Mildred:

It is nice to think people so far away are thinking of us and are concerned for our welfare. You have no idea what a help it is to realize that the U. S. A. is standing behind us.

We have never shown a weak spirit throughout this struggle, even in those dreadful days in June when France gave up and we knew we stood alone to bear the brunt of the attack but as the U. S. became more decisive in its help we became more confident that we could win through.

I suppose Germany will try to invade us but if she does she will find a hot reception waiting for her. The people of Britain are much too angry at the wholesale destruction of our city centers to stand much nonsense from Hitler and his gang of mad and wicked men.

CONCENTRATED ATTACKS

You, of course, know about his concentrated attacks on our cities such as Coventry, Birmingham, Sheffield, Southampton, Manchester and others. They are terrible and are carried out to terrorize the civilian population but they do not succeed.

We have just had a letter from Uncle in Ashton, which was not touched during the raid on Manchester. The center of this city was badly knocked about. Warehouses were damaged, the Free Trade Hall, Royal Exchange, Cathedral, Chetham's Hospital, Exchange Station, Piccadily, Portland st. and heaps of working class homes.

We were most upset here the nights Manchester City was being "blitzed" than when we are in the midst of a raid ourselves. The planes passed over our house going up and we knew where they were going. It was a queer sensation. You felt you wanted to warn your family they were coming. Since I wrote you last we have experienced some terrific nights. We suffer most when the Birmingham area is raided or West Midlands. The planes pass over our place as they follow the River Severn up to a place about seven miles from Wolverhampton and then shoot across.

SCHOOL CLOSED

We are surrounded by guns, and we have eight practically on our front doorstep. You should hear and feel them. At first we expected the house to collapse, but we do not bother now, we just keep the windows open. The letter box does a war dance.

A land mine was dropped near one of our schools. It did not explode, so the school had to be closed and 300 people evacuated for over a week while the authorities prepared to explode it.

The children have adapted themselves more easily to the raids than adults. About 100 of our children had their homes damaged by a land mine in the same raid. They were in school the following day quite unconcerned.

I come in contact with a lot of the mothers and they are always saying that the schools have been responsible for the children's behaviour during the raids. They find themselves some occupation and do not worry about the noise. Then the settle down and go to sleep in spite of the guns.

It is a pathetic sight to see some evacuees. I watched 400 women and children arrive from London one afternoon. I was terribly upset. They only had the clothes they stood in. Everything they possessed and treasured had gone.

CHILDREN IN SHELTERS

I am writing this during an "Alert" in school. The children have gone to the shelters but I have a fearful cold so I am staying in my room. I very rarely go down to the shelters these days. I have a fairly substantial table I can dive under when the danger threatens I will write you once a month, Mildred, in the future.

We are all well at present apart from colds and believe me our "chins are up" in spite of the fact that we can only live one day at a time.

Please remember us to all the family and again thank you for your kind thought and for the help you are giving Britain. You certainly should be proud you come of British stock.

Heaps of love,

MARY.

P.S.: I must tell this. We can now tell by our shops that we are at war. Luxuries have disappeared. We cannot buy chocolates or fruit. Nuts are high priced. There are no figs or dates. Materials and stockings are very expensive.

F. D., KING VOW MUTUAL DEFENSE AID

HYDE PARK, N. Y., April 21 (AP) — Speedy mobilization of North America's resources calling for the interchange of defense articles by the United States and Canada has been agreed upon by President Roosevelt and Canadian Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King.

Designed for the dual purpose of hastening aid to Great Britain and other democracies and for defense of this hemisphere the agreement was announced in a joint statement last night after a seven hour conference between Mr. Roosevelt and the Canadian leader at the President's Hudson Valley home. Both then left for their respective posts in Washington and Ottawa.

"It was agreed upon as a general principle," the statement said, "that in mobilizing the resources of this continent each country should provide the other with the defense article which it is best able to produce, and, above all, produce quickly, and that production programs should be co-ordinated to this end."

GOODS FROM CANADA

During the next year, the statement added, it was hoped Canada could supply the United States with $200,000,000 to $300,000,000 worth of defense articles "urgently required by the United States."

"Certain kinds of munitions, strategic materials, aluminum and ships" were mentioned in this respect.

In that period, the statement said, Canadian purchases would be even greater than in the past. Pending ironing out of technical and financial details, it was understood between the statesmen that Canada would receive payment for the supplies so as to defray part of the cost of its defense purchases in this country.

"Insofar as Canada's defense purchases in the United States consists of component parts to be used in equipment and munitions which Canada is producing for Great Britain," the statement went on, "it was also agreed that Great Britain will obtain these parts under the lease-lend act and forward them to Canada for inclusion in the finished article."

HEMISPHERE DEFENSE

A joint statement by the President and Mr. King began:

"Among other important matters, the President and the prime minister discussed measures by which the most prompt and effective utilization might be made of the productive facilities of North America for the purposes both of local and hemisphere defense and of the assistance which, in addition to their own programs, both Canada and the United States are rendering to Great Britain and the other democracies."

★BE AMERICAN

WHEN the President designated Sunday, May 18, as a day for emphasis on the "special significance of citizenship in this nation," he laid the foundation of what should be hereafter an annual and ultimately a traditional American observance.

Mr. Roosevelt suggested that it be known as "I Am An American" Day, "in recognition of our citizens who have attained their majority or who have been naturalized within the year."

It would be difficult to conceive of a patriotic enterprise more fundamentally related to the welfare and well-being of this nation.

Every year, as the President implies, thousands of our people achieve the status of citizenship through naturalization or coming of age.

It is the right of all these to SAY they are Americans.

Is it not more important, however, that they should be GOOD Americans?

Are we doing everything possible to MAKE them good Americans?

Unless we instruct them in the history of our country, impress our ideals upon them in such a manner that they will be inspired by them, instill in them an understanding and appreciation of our historic principles, what assurance is there that they will preserve and pass on to other generations the institutions we have inherited and must convey to them?

MANY WILL ASK what IS the "special significance" of American citizenship?

Is it not that a duty descends on all who attain that status to do everything within the limits of human power to keep the fundamental character of their country unchanged?

They must LOVE America.

They must RESPECT its ideals and principles.

In order to have these essential qualities of good citizenship, they must be TAUGHT to know how this country came into being, by what processes it maintains itself.

It is not a sufficient discharge of patriotic duties for a citizen to be able to say, "I am an American."

In fact, Abraham Lincoln once said it is not even sufficient to LOVE America.

Mr. Lincoln said our American way of life must be SERVED as well as loved and respected, and must be continuously TAUGHT to those inheriting it if it is not to perish.

Our young people must not be permitted to come to the threshold of citizenship unprepared for the duties of that estate, and lacking proficiency in those duties.

We would violate one of the oldest rules of history if we should neglect our opportunities and obligations to AMERICANIZE youth throughout the impressionable years when the character of man is shaped.

THE "SPECIAL SIGNIFICANCE" of American citizenship is that it confers freedom of conscience, worship, opinion and expression upon the individual—but along with that freedom the power to preserve or to destroy it.

We do not enjoy the liberties and benefactions of the Constitution of the United States because it was written by our fathers, but because we deem that way of life best for us.

We do not assemble in our churches, or walk our streets, or build our homes and family life or criticize our government according to how we judge it simply because the founders of this country said those things were right, but because WE hold them to be right.

A single generation of skeptical, indifferent and unpatriotic Americans, untaught in the basic concepts and precepts of America, could change the character of our national life overnight.

Every year enough Americans attain citizenship to WRECK AMERICA, if they have not been taught to love and serve America.

Let the observance of "I Am An American" Day become the fixed custom of this land.

But let the preparations for being GOOD AMERICANS be not neglected.

Let them begin when the free air of this great Republic is first breathed.

Let them ripen into understanding and performance of the patriotic duties which symbolize the "special significance" of BEING AMERICAN.

ORCHESTRA MEN who deal almost solely with society parties encounter some pretty queer happenings.

We know a story, vouched for by three different persons, present at the time, which concerns Sammy Eisen, one of society's favorite maestros, and five other musicians.

Quietly playing at the Magnolia Casino one fateful Saturday night, they were asked by one of the richest and most prankish young men on the North Shore to come to his country place, located nearby, and play for the rest of the night.

That's all they were told—then.

The glittering young man, we will identify for you, if you know your society, by mentioning that he is as well known in Washington, Newport and Chicago social circles, as he is here; that with his mother and sister he owns one of the most palatial estates on the North Shore and that he mixes with Boston society only during the summer when he comes to his North Shore estate.

WHEN the musicians arrived at the young man's sumptuous home, he took them to a closed door, sat them in front of it and said:

"Two young friends of mine were married this afternoon and are honeymooning here as my guests. This is their room and I want you to serenade them all night long. But I want you to play only one tune and to keep playing it, over and over again, without stopping. If you get tired, you can spell each other, but you must not stop playing."

So the musicians went to work and played that one song continuously—the whole night through—without stopping.

The song? What do you think it was?

The Star Spangled Banner.

MENTION OF SAMMY reminds us that he's quite unique. For longer than we can remember Sammy has been an indispensable adjunct of debutante parties.

He started in by being a drummer for Ruby Newman, but his way with the debs soon promoted him to the position of a full-fledged leader.

Rotund, jolly, likeable, Sammy has a trick of making even the most timid deb feel confidence in her attractions.

WITTY, he has the habit of singing in a sort of basso-profundo, lyrics he makes up on the spur of the moment to popular tunes, which refer to some pretty girl on the dance floor who has caught his fancy. The debs flutter, but are delighted, at being singled out in this manner and their escorts, flustered at being thus spotlighted, stumble a bit, but they like it, too.

As the years go on, Sammy loses hair but gains in weight and popularity.

By now he's a sort of father confessor to more socialites than you could guess. At dances they come to him and pour their trials in his ever-sympathetic ear.

THERE IS SOMETHING very beguiling in his jolly, Santa Claus features and his zest for fun suggests an amazing vitality which is heart-warming. Like Bette Davis, his eyes pop a little, but they're lustrous and deep brown and express instant compassion for any little deb not having fun, or any beau drowning his love sorrows in drink.

Consequently, the younger crowd find themselves telling him things they wouldn't divulge to their own mothers. In return, Sammy tries t make them happy and guards their little secrets well.

That's why many a deb looks upon Sammy as her best friend. His flattering attentions helped her popularity at her coming-out party, so when she gets married she's apt to insist that Sammy play at her wedding. Thus Sammy becomes more and more of a fixture in Boston society.

Then he has helped countless debs who turned their talents to singing, dancing, or music.

THE GIRL in the picture with him, for instance, is Peggy Parker, Boston society's most golden child. It was Sammy who orchestrated some music for her when she first danced in public, at the Casino, in a Musical Steeplechase, organized by yours truly.

Later she made a tremendous hit at the Latin Quarter. Now, having studied with Albertina Rasch, she is well on her way to fame, although she still dances in amateur society productions like the Vincent show. In fact she was the hit of this year's show, which just closed last Saturday night.

Peggy has talent, as well as remarkable platinum-blonde hair, and has gained in poise since her debut a few years ago. Her dancing has freshness and there is a clean sort of innocence to her beauty which is a little startling when encountered in a razzle-dazzle night club.

SAMMY prods her into working hard—whenever he gets the chance.

Some of his other fledglings are doing very well. Since warbling for Sammy, Nancy Bertelsen has become a Powers model in New York. Leila Ernst made a hit in a George Abbott show and is now making movies in Hollywood. And Julia Barbour is fast acquiring the poise and art of a Lil by Holman in her rendition of the lustier blues songs.

ELLIOTT LOSES TRIP TO JIMMY

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, April 21—Elliott Roosevelt wanted the job of going to the battlefields in all warring countries, and being under fire there—but his brother, James, beat him to it, and won the assignment . . . What did Darryl Zanuck do with the $42.39 which the people of Chungking sent, after they saw "Grapes of Wrath," and raised that sum "because they're more miserable than we in China are. We at least have homes"? . . . Artie Shaw, who just completed his radio series with George Burns and Gracie Allen will make his debut as a symphony conductor in Tennessee. Shaw also will conduct at the Lewisohn Stadium this summer . . . Leon Janney, of the movies, is being readied for the draft. He has just received his questionnaire . . . Sergeant Alvin C. York, whom Gary Cooper portrays in the forthcoming movie, has completed another swingback in the strange course of his career . . . Sergeant York, in 1917, was a conscientious objector. But after he entered the Army and went to France, he became the most-decorated hero in the AEF . . . The movie will hold its world premiere in his home town, Pall Mall, Tennessee. And when Gary Cooper gets there, he'll find the unusual finish to the story. For Sergeant York, whose military career began as a conscientious objector, now is spending his time in a strange capacity. He's a member of the local draft board.

BYRNES MacDONALD'S resignation at City Hall has become effective, and he has accepted a post in the Navy . . . The swank Fefe's Monte Carlo will feature three strip-teasers, including Noel Carter, the Minsky stripper. Fefe now is auditioning blonde strip-teasers to find a suitable one.

SIDNEY WEINBERG, head of Goldman Sachs, now is a $1-a-year co-ordinator for Donald Nelson . . . Major Seversky's reply to Colonel Lindbergh will appear soon. This answer will concern only the technical and strategic aspects, and not the political phase . . . Senator Lodge has put on 35 pounds in the last six months.

IN LOUIS FISCHER'S book, he'll tell of the time when Isaac Don Levine was a correspondent in Moscow. When Lenin became ill, and his death was expected, Levine went to England, and arranged a code with his syndicate office—a code message he would send as Lenin died, and thus Levine would evade the censorship. The message agreed upon was: "Please Send Me $150 at Once . . . The correspondent returned to Moscow. When Lenin died there, a 36-hour censorship was placed upon that news story. Levine immediately cabled London: "Please Send Me $150 at Once." Back came the reply: "Sorry—Your Account Already is Overdrawn."

WHEN the Chinese Government succeeded in obtaining an RFC loan of many millions of dollars on collateral which was most insignificant, the Chinese officials decided to show their appreciation. They invited the RFC officers to a dinner at the Embassy. There they served a rare repast—and then someone suggested a poker game The well-fed RFC officers played long, but not too well, against the friendly Chinese. The RFC men left that game with a quarter between them . . . Frank M. Thomas, the actor, is the father of Frankie Thomas, the juvenile who has one of the leads in the show, "Your Loving Son" . . . Thomas dined at the Clichy where he greeted a friend who had seen an out-of-town performance of that show. The friend congratulated the boy's father, and said: "Frankie's a chip off the old block" . . . "The actor-son of an actor-father is not referred to as a chip off the old block," the proud Thomas corrected, "but rather as a chip on the old shoulder."

"It's guhink to," and he furnished the name, street number, "Hahlye-voot, Keliforn'ya." He then dictated the message, concluding with: "Dees is warry important and h'urjant. Ettant to heet right evay" . . . The operator repeated the message. "Sign eet," Ratoff finally told her, "Gregory Ratoff" . . . The Western Union operator replied: "I thought so."

ON the SIDE

E. V. DURLING

PEOPLE IN EUROPE think they have something to worry about and indeed they have. BUT consider the Japanese; they have to worry about war and also worry about what the Scientist Chase Salmon Osborn claims as follows: "Japan is due to disappear entirely because it is on the edge of a caving, unstable trough in the ocean. The entire archipelago is gradually slipping into the sea. No one can tell the day or the hour when Japan's complete submergence and destruction will occur. It may be within a decade or a half a century but it's coming." Imagine picking up the morning paper and seeing a headline: "Japan Disappears into the Sea."

PEARL WINICH, going in for historical statistics, says Josephine, a 34-year-old widow when she married the 27-year-old Napoleon Bonaparte, bought 220 Summer frocks, 675 other dresses and 520 pairs of shoes in one year. That's too many shoes. I don't believe a woman should have more than 70 pairs of shoes a year . . . Jeffrey Lynn and several other film actors have written an article advising women on "How to Charm a Male." In brief, these fellows are saying: "Girls, if you want to win our attention, or receive a pat on the head from us, here's what we expect you to do." What's come over those movie actors? Some of them are getting almost as pompous as columnists.

WHAT PRICE GLORY! According to a London newspaper a dead airman's mother waited seven hours at a London railroad station to receive her son's body. It arrived on a freight train. On the occasion of her protest to the British air ministry the mother said: "My son's coffin might have been just another piece of luggage. There was not a flower and no escort. Not until the undertaker I had engaged produced a Union Jack was the coffin draped with the flag of the country for which my son died."

BRIEFLY: "In 1920, automobiles sold for 70 cents a pound, now the average car sells for 29 cents a pound," states a statistician. That's quite a way of figuring price of an automobile. How much a pound did you pay for your car? . . . "Want some inside stuff" writes a feminine client. "Marlene Dietrich pays $4.50 a pair for her stockings. I just sold her some." . . . Note an account of a doctor who officiated at birth of his own child. I know a doctor who did the same thing. Of this occasion this doctor's wife said of her husband: "He was very nervous because he could hardly wait to see if it was a boy."

SAID EDMUND BURKE: "Woman is not made to be the admiration of everybody, but for the happiness of one man." Keep that in mind, lady.

MY DAY

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

WASHINGTON, Sunday—When I was in Buffalo, N. Y., I saw the NYA training shop and it looked like an extremely efficient, well laid out plant. I am sure the boys are learning skills which will help them to get jobs in the new factories which are now opening.

Saturday, in New York City, I did a number of errands and saw some of my family. In the evening I went to see Lillian Hellman's play "Watch on the Rhine." It is stirring and in parts, harrowing.

All the way through I was thinking of how the family symbolized our country as a whole, so unaware do we seem to the dangers and horrors all around us. I feel sure, however, that like Fanny in the play, we shall not be made of paste if our test comes.

I HEAR THAT on April 23, on the college campuses in this country, there will be called a new kind of peace strike by certain groups who seem aware of the realities of today. If the program which has been sent me by the Brooklyn College Student Council is really to be part of the thinking of all these young people on this day, it will be a valuable day to many of them.

None of us knows how circumstances may change from day to day, nor what we must meet as time goes on, but the notice sent to me of "Design for Living, a Democratic World at Peace, Triple A for Peace and Democracy" has much food for thought, and shows a willingness to discuss and face the situation as it is today for us and the world.

The following is what these young people favor:

1—All materials to nations resisting aggression; Great Britain, China, Greece. No AEF beyond the Western Hemisphere.

2—Adequate national defense, military and social. Expanded national defense in addition to, but not at the expense of, the social services—NYA, housing, etc.

3—Academic freedom, civil liberties. The rights of labor must be maintained and any abridgment thereof, opposed.

CANADIAN FILM ROLE TO GEORGE BRENT

By Louella O. Parsons

George Brent

HOLLYWOOD, April 21—George Brent might as well get busy studying his Royal Canadian Air Force regulations, for come June he goes to Canada to be starred in Norman Reilly Raines' screen play, "The Shadow of Their Wings," an air thriller describing how the Canadians are trained and what is being done to help England protect her country.

My first intimation that Warners had such a movie in mind was when I walked into Hal Wallis' office and saw maps of Canada and airplane sketches on his desk. Under cross-examination he told me that when he was in New York he had obtained permission and promise of co-operation from the Canadian government to make his picture, and that Raines had already gone to Canada to confer with officials. William Keighley, the director, will leave soon to decide on a definite location

IF GINGER ROGERS doesn't sign that contract with RKO Sam Goldwyn may sign her to co-star with Gary Cooper in "The Professor and the Burlesque Queen." Carole Lombard is also another of Sam's choices for the role. But even if Ginger does sign a contract with RKO she could still make the picture for Sam since she is reserving the right to make outside pictures, as I said a few days ago. Sam has been pretty lucky about borrowing top-notch stars for all his pictures, even though they are not under contract to him. Bette Davis, for instance, is on his lot now trying to put on weight, of all things, for "The Little Foxes."

JUST ONE small scene in "Men of Boys' Town" won Anne Revere the coveted role of Ma Baxter in "The Yearling." She played the mother of the boy who was tortured to death in a boys' reformatory, and did such a wonderful job that Sydney Franklin, producer of "The Yearling," asked her to make a test. Miss Revere played in "Children's Hour" on the stage and was in "The Howards of Virginia." She leaves for Florida this week to join Victor Fleming, the director, and Gene Eckman, the boy. I have had hundreds of letters asking about the casting of "The Yearling" for many people read it and loved it.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: I suspected Norma Shearer had a heart interest in New York when she went flying there so often and was on the long distance telephone so many times. Now I learn that Ronald Balcom, formerly wed to Millicent Rogers, oil heiress, has fallen in love with Norma and that she has not been indifferent. When she and Sylvia Fairbanks flew East it was to keep an engagement with Ronnie. So boys and girls, keep your eye on this romance, it looks serious.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Mrs. Loreen Robinson, who will shortly wed Wally Beery, watching the boy friend emote on location at Long Beach; Barbara Pepper and Anatole Litvak enjoying a late supper at La Conga; Van Heflin and Dorothy Brooks, Kurt Bernhardt's secretary, have discovered each other. They were engrossed in each other at the Grace Hayes' Lodge; Myrna Loy and Arthur Hornblow at the Mocambo, holding hands and dancing every dance; Sonja Henie, with Dan Topping at the opening of the Ice Capades, bowing and waving to McGowan and Mac as they skated by her box; Martha Raye back in town, looking very happy and better than I have ever seen her, with Neal Lang, her fiance, at the Rhum Boogie.

INGRID BERGMAN leaves this week to put her husband, Dr. Peter Lindstrom, on the boat for Sweden; the pretty girl dancing with Sam Wood at Ciro's was Katherine Stevens, his daughter; Adrian and Janet Gaynor stopping in Ciro's after the Ice Capades, and many others who came from the Durbin-Paul wedding reception; Judy Garland and Dave Rose holding hands at the wedding. Judy did a rave about the way Deanna looked. I asked her if she would be next and she didn't say yes and she didn't say no.

ORCHESTRA FEATURE OF DREAMWOLD HALL ENTERTAINMENT

Hurley's Cabin, Dorgan's Harbor House Draws 'Em

By SAM BERENSON

Mary Jane Moore and Billy Revel, America's premier dance satirists, are the highlights of the new Latin Quarter revue . . . Stars of several musical comedies, motion pictures and Broadway productions, Moore and Revel have likewise starred in every famous entertainment center in America.

Also on the new bill are the Three Chords, a trio of lads with a new slant on music and comedy. Audrey Palmer, one of the season's dancing discoveries; Harry Spear, the Four Gentlemen and the ballet in new production numbers. Herb Lewis continues to hold forth in the cocktail lounge . . . Anthony Bruno, and Don Dudley provide continuous music . . . Sally Rand opens Sunday, May 4th, for a week's engagement.

A new show dances into the Cocoanut Grove where a standout bill has been arranged to give local club goers one of the fastest and most entrancing revues that the Rialto week can offer . . . here's bigtime entertainment, bright with talent and spiced with variety . . . the all adding up to a slick take-in . . . And a further memo to you on those Thursday theatrical guest nights where Mickey Alpert plays so able a host . . . And to the Versailles comes still another in that starry list of deft presentations which this town has come to find week after week at this atmospheric spot . . . It's a Manhattan revue, teeming with action from start to finish . . . with music for your dancing bill being served up by Bobby Hackett, that ace trumpeter and his men of jive.

With considerable fanfare and eclat, luxurious Dreamwold Hall in Scituate opened for the summer season under the direction of Larry Thornton, featuring the smart dance music of Peter Walter's Orchestra, a newly decorated cocktail lounge, and added facilities for the accomodations of dinner parties of all sizes . . . Dreamwold Hall is the most beautiful dining rendezvous on the South Shore . . . It's a terrific show bill at the Crawford House this week where tassel-tossing Sally Keith headlines a streamlined, star-studded show treat that is certain to find this oasis jammed . . . here's action from start to finish in a thrill-packed and ably presented routine.

Pat Rooney's dancing feet are the week's featured attraction at Joe Wagenbach's Lawrence Hofbrau . . . here's a grand entertainer with the charm to hold an audience . . . a smart take-in . . . Dorgan's Old Harbor House continues its merry ways with satisfying entertainment and delicious sea-foods . . . Bibby's Allston Cafe clings to its fast floor attractions . . . those Monday amateurs provide a world of laughs . . . That whirl-wind action continues at Billy Hurley's Log Cabin . . . novel and interesting programs every evening . . . you'll like the novelty angles here . . . Eddie Watson and his swing crew add to the pleasures of visiting Alpini's . . . a nice band and an action-jammed salon . . . Still another fine revue comes brightly polished by Harry Drake at the Westminster Blue Room . . . Open for the season is the Penquin at Nahant . . . fine fast-moving floor shows in a 3-time nightly presentation . . . never a dull moment here.

The most successful of the passing season's new nocturnal hideaways is the Cave, near the Majestic Theater, currently under the guiding hand of Jack Fisher, who has neatly created a unique atmosphere and smart entertainment. Tamara Dorlva, Latin-American songbird, is the outstanding attraction . . . Steuben's Vienna Room carries on with its policy of chic revues and the Conrad music . . . which accounts for the popularity here . . . and few spots in town are in such demand as Steuben's for private parties.

A bright new show for Blinstrub's Village, where host Blinstrub has rounded up a torrid-tempo'd Manhattan revue certain to find favor among the scores of Village patrons . . . there's action a-plenty to satisfy anyone. Starring this week are Ruthania and Malcolm, dancing satirists, Boyd Heathen and Karl

"I wuz thinkin'...."

by Izzy Ort

I wuz jest sayin' to me: "Little man, you've had a busy day!" an' if you don't think I wuz busy, like a bee, gatherin' material for this column, you're wrong' It takes different kinds of things to make news and I have to be fussy like a city editor.

Well—didn't I tell ya? I guess that Mike Kaplan did alright for himself. We hadda champ here in town all the time and I went out on the limb for him in big style and I'm glad I did!

Mike presented me with the gloves he wore to shellack Zivic with and they are in my front window today. Drop around and see 'em! Did ya hear that Tommy Dailey, Mike's manager, fainted after the fight, he wuz so happy!

Last Wednesday night, I had a flock of guests from the "Rose Marie" company at the Shubert. The boys and girls in the show wuz herded in by Fred D. Cordova, company manager, and Doc Benedict Cooper, one of the town's leadin' molar repairers. They had such a lotta fun that I expect 'em to play return engagements. My El Tropico Room has its first anniversary on May 9. Incidently, this Paradise hideaway is goin' better every day. Tonight, I'm takin' the entire show over to the Broadway Theater in Southie to do a benefit show for the Columbus Day Nursery. When it's a good cause, I always wanta pitch in. Rocky Stone is tossin' his annual party this week. Onct a year, Rocky, an old-time ring veteran leather-pusher, gathers the boys around for a real good time an' this is it!

For some good food and a lotta fun, come down town and spend the evenin' at Ort's Grill and El Tropico Room. 25 Essex St. Advt.

THERE MAY BE a third term at the Junior League . . . It all depends on results of balloting at the annual election of officers at a luncheon meeting at the League tomorrow . . .

Mrs. David Todd, the charming president who is just completing her second term, has the complete confidence of the voters who would like to leave the executive reins in her capable hands . . . But being a recent bride she may decide that with her domestic duties she will not have enough time to devote to such an important and absorbing job . . .

When Mrs. Todd began her career as president of the League she was Geraldine Field . . . She had already served the League in various official capacities and her executive ability has also been recognized by other philanthropic and volunteer services in Boston . . . She has been a willing worker for Community Fund drives, the Children's Hospital, the Vincent Club and the Boston Dispensary . . .

Following the election and luncheon on Tuesday guests will turn their attention to the members' art exhibit which is on view in the ballroom and the smaller gallery upstairs . . .

Luncheon guests will include Elizabeth Ayer, Evelyn A. Baker, Mrs. John Warren Beach, Mrs. George F. Bemis, Mrs. Melville Chapin, Elizabeth Breed, Mrs. John R. Coffin, Caroline M. Dabney, Mrs. John Fairfield, Mrs. Robert Fiske, Barbara Frost, Anne Delano Grant, Katharine Cunningham Gray, Priscilla V. Hall, Mrs. George Mixter, Mrs. William L. Shearer 3d, Susan Simonds and many others . . .

Lining the walls of the gallery will be pictures of such well known Boston thoroughbreds as the Newfoundlands belonging to Mrs. Davieson Powell, Mrs. Francis V. Crane's snowy white Pyrenees and springer spaniels, and Mrs .George Putnam's well barbered poodles . . .

A tea will be given for a number of socialite dog fanciers on the opening day of the exhibition . . . Presiding at the tea tables will be Mrs. Crane and Mrs. Putnam, together with Miss Rosa Grinnell, Mrs. S. Foster Hunt and Mrs. A. E. Marshall of Providence . . .

A New Figure for Spring

Registered U. S. Patent Office

By IDA JEAN KAIN

One of the most engaging reducers I have ever encountered is a five-year-old Philadelphian named Frankie who is in dead earnest about getting his weight down and who has perfectly matter-of-fact reasons for doing it.

The first is "SO I can eat five pieces of bread at lunch," and the second, "I can get my coat buttoned and it's chilly."

"I met Frankie at the famous St. Christopher's Hospital for Children where his progress in slimming is looked upon with pride and joy. The dietitian tells me that when he lost weight he is almost talkative; and when he hasn't he hangs his head and has very little to say (with my reducers it is apt to work just the opposite. They talk more when giving excuses for not losing.)

Frankie is 45½ inches tall and weighs 74 pounds, 13 ounces. He has reduced from 81 pounds, 6 ounces, and still has a little way to go before getting down to the 48 pound mark considered normal for him.

GAINS 30 POUNDS

Since he weighed only seven and three-quarters pounds at birth and didn't have to give his calories a thought until the age of four when, over a span of a few months, he gained 30 pounds, his excess weight is clearly the result of a glandular disturbance.

It is significant to note, however, that his weight is being normalized through control of his food habits along with the administration of thyriod extract. And in case you are inclined to put too much emphasis on the glands and enough on the food habits, compare his eating habits before and after going on the diet.

His breakfast used to be chocolate milk and three slices of bread and butter. For lunch he had two huge sandwiches and chocolate milk. And for supper, meat, potatoes and bread. He liked potatoes but no other vegetables. He loved rice pudding. Between meals he usually ate seven or eight double crackers.

EATS LESS NOW

But now that he is on a diet, he follows menus like these: Breakfast: Orange juice, skim milk and one slice of whole wheat toast; lunch: a cheese sandwich, skim milk and an unsweetened fruit; dinner: what he calls the "skinny part of the meat," vegetables and skim milk. He has codliver oil twice a day and nothing else between meals.

The doctor at this clinic is convinced that with children, as with adults, habits of eating are the main cause of overweight. The habit of eating between meals and the consumption of too much sugar and starch account for the amazingly high calorie intake.

Your Dietitian,
IDA JEAN KAIN.

Buy a Little Home at Low Cost

CHARMING SMALL HOUSE HAS THREE BEDROOMS

Nowadays, with Federal Housing Administration Loans, it doesn't take a fortune to buy a charming home. One out of every four families buying homes under FHA plan in 1939 spent less than $4000 for house and lot.

In one type of FHA loan, the minimum down payment may be only 10 per cent of the total cost of house and lot. The rest you pay in monthly instalments like rent, over a 20 to 25-year period.

A two-story or story-and-a-half house is usually more economical than one in which extra bedrooms are added in wings on the ground floor. A good example is the trim white brick house in our picture.

Our 40-page booklet, Low-Cost Homes — Planning, Financing, Building, gives plans and photographs of 29 charming houses. Explains FHA financing; advises on construction, also modernizing of old homes.

The Paradise Glow

By Hollis Starnes

WHAT made Rhonda Paradise unique as a stage star was her flashing, flaming hair. They called it the Paradise Glow. Nothing quite like it ever was seen before or since on Broadway, until—

What made Rhonda's hair unique was the art of Blasco, the hair dresser. He used to say sometimes, musing over the theater program list of who made her gowns, hats, shoes and mesh bags: "Why don't they add, 'Hair by Blasco,'"

Then he would chuckle. For Blasco did his job of improving at least the outer heads of his customers with a real sense of joy in his work. He also accepted gratefully the generous commissions and gratuities that came for his expert service. The exclusive clientele of Jose's was mostly society women and actresses, who could pay well for the best.

Blasco and Rhonda Paradise were contemporaries, so to speak, on the Broadway scene. Blasco came by way of Peru. His family, as he often said, were Spanish Grandees. When Blasco shipped in a hurry for North America, he left his family tree behind with his surname. He was 20 and his father had chucked him out.

Blasco had skipped college to pursue a red-haired Flamenco girl he saw in Lima with a circus troupe. A day out on the boat, and Blasco remembered nothing about the girl except her hair. He never forgot that. Somehow it was bound up with his destiny.

Arriving at the Port of New York, he quickly made his way to the Spanish quarter. He could speak no English, and he had to get a job. At last, he landed in Jose's. One of his first duties was sweeping out the booths. Then he waited on the operators, stirring and brewing hair dyes under their instruction.

FLAMENCO FLAME

It was while he was learning how to mix dyes that Blasco first took a real interest in his job. Under his eyes, he saw miracles performed in women's personalities, by a change of hair coloring. Many and varied were the shades of hair turned out by Jose's, but not one had the devastating glow of his Flamenco flame.

That gave him an idea, and he began to experiment. Meantime, at the shop he met a pretty, level-headed manicurist from Astoria, and married her. He loved her, though she was a brunette, and red hair would not suit her type. Besides, he wanted her just the way she was.

After Blasco had worked his way up to hairdressing and coloring, he sought a subject who would carry off the dazzling shade he had concocted. The day Rhonda Paradise walked into his booth, the dye was literally cast.

Rhoda was then in her middle twenties, and understudy to a star who was his regular customer. A plain, drab-looking creature, Blasco knew Rhonda could not afford Jose's but she wanted to be seen in the shop her star patronized. She confided something of her history. Her background was of a breed lower than the peasantry on Blasco's father's place. She had changed her name, bobbed her nose and picked up a Park Avenue accent. "I'm going to get somewhere!" she declared.

Blasco admired this determination. Still, for all her ambition she was getting nowhere until he created the Paradise Glow for her. At the time, she was going after a leading role her star had turned down.

If she can play it, so can I," said Rhonda describing the play. The heroine was a young society girl who defied the conventions—this was back in the booming, early 1920's.

Such a character," observed Blasco, "should flame like her lines. With that hair of yours you can only smoulder."

"Make my hair flame!" ordered Rhonda.

So Blasco did.

Rhonda became a star almost overnight. Critics and public raved over her flaming youth, her emotional power, her—hair. It was that hair, Blasco knew, that helped her release what had heretofore smouldered within. Rhonda knew it herself.

Other young actresses, learning of Blasco's miracle, rushed to him for copies of the Paradise Glow. "No," he said firmly, "it's an original—copyrighted." And though other hairdressers naturally turned out imitations, yet nothing ever really equaled the blaze of glory of Blasco's "original copyright."

Rhonda herself? as time went on and she began to believe what the press agents wrote of her genius, tried other hairdressers—but she always came back.

A CHANGED WOMAN

She disliked his easy manners with her after she became a star. After all, this man was just a hairdresser, a menial. Outside of his booth, she lost no time putting him in his place. When he came to her hotel, she made him use the service entrance. In her dressing-room, when she received notables, she would say, "Wait outside, Blasco." He never seemed to mind. He always smiled politely and said, "Si Signorina." He still had Peruvian manners.

Fifteen years passed, which on Broadway amounts to a generation and contemporaries of Rhonda Paradise began to play mature roles. Rhonda turned down with contempt her manager's suggestion of stage motherhood.

On the strength of her name, she went to Hollywood, but they told her after six months, that she hadn't a camera face. Then Blasco read one day that she was in Europe. After two years she suddenly appeared at the shop, with a virtually new face and a French accent. Her hair, however, was a travesty of the old Paradise Glow.

"Nevaire, nevaire will I go back to that Hollywood!" she told Blasco, who by now was part owner of Jose's. "Such peegs. No mannairs!" Then she went on in her usual voice! "I'll make a comeback right here on Broadway, in a typical Paradise role. I can act rings around any of these beginners, and now I look as young as they do. Make my hair simply blaze, Blasco!"

But a season passed and Rhonda got nothing to do. Her face looked haggard in spite of its lift, her eyes were old and tired.

"What am I going to do?" she appealed to Blasco. "I'm down to my last cent."

Then Blasco made a radical suggestion. "Why not change your type, become a really new Paradise?"

"How do you mean—new?"

"Drop the synthetic youth. Be your age all my smart customers are doing it. Be distinguished, sophisticated, and have gray hair."

"You want to make an old woman out of me at 33?"

"Forty-six," corrected Blasco. "Just smart middle age. If you really have to work, I mean."

Then he told her of a part he'd heard about—the mother of a modern glamour girl. The playwright was popular, the producer one of the best. "There's no star in it," said Blasco, "but the girl's part goes to young Vicky Wendell."

Rhonda had never forgotten how to swear, and she swore now, roundly. "Me play a second to some beginner, some—society girl?"

"Sometimes society girls have to earn their living, too," said Blasco. "Can they help it because their people didn't run a— "

RHONDA GETS JOB

Rhonda stopped him quickly; she was still sensitive about her family skeleton. "If I should consider this part," she said, "I could show up this amateur! I hear she's only been on the stage a year."

With her new white hair and the dignity of Blasco's most impressive coiffure, Rhonda got the job. During rehearsals, she confided to Blasco that she was only walking through her scenes with Vicky. "But wait till opening night! I'll use every trick of the stage I've ever learned. She'll get the shock of her life!"

"Don't forget you were a beginner once yourself," said Blasco.

"Is that girl a customer of yours?"

"No, not exactly."

"Then shut up, Blasco. I'm sick of hearing people drool about her." Rhonda offered to buy him a gallery seat for the opening, as usual, but he declined with thanks and said some one had already invited him. He'd come around afterwards and tell her how the show went.

If young Vicky Wendell was due for a surprise from her stage mother's tightened technique, it was Rhonda who got the first shock of the evening. When she made her first entrance, Vicky was already on the stage and Rhonda was suddenly conscious of a startling change in the girl's personality. Her sandy hair had been heightened to the brilliance and dash of the one and only Paradise Glow! Rhonda gazed and stiffened. The play went on.

Blasco, looking impeccable in his evening clothes, knocked on Rhonda's dressing-room door after the final curtain. A handsome young man was with him, whom he presented as his son. But Rhonda had no time for civilities.

"I want to see you alone!" she told Blasco, and abruptly closed the door in the young man's face.

"Traitor!" she hissed.

"Even a copyright runs out," said Blasco with a smile. "Besides, that color didn't suit you any more."

"You said that girl was not your customer!"

"That's right. She's engaged to marry my son."

THE END.

"Rhonda got the initial shock of the even ing when she made her first appearance."

'Radiant Skin Lotion' as Aid

By ARLINE GOULD

IF ALL the new enthusiasms and excitements that come with spring haven't been able to rouse a glow and a softness in your complexion . . . and you don't know what to make of it . . . then you need something to stimulate your complexion to the point where it helps renew itself and look young and pretty again!

In this age of modern miracles, there is none more unique than a "radiant skin lotion," which is not an astringent . . . but is a stimulant which has been the standby of a world-famous salon in its treatments . . . because it helps clear away expression lines and clears the skin through stimulation!

The proof of it is its action on whiteheads . . . which are the last word in skin troubles that arise from circulatory difficulties . . . for it will help the skin as it renews itself to eject those hard-packed interlopers.

It's to be used after cleansing . . . always after the use of cream . . . and though it tingles rather sharply in bringing up circulation . . . there is not a single ingredient in it that's drying.

In the salon treatment it's always used on the neck, first . . . and then patted on wherever lines are to be faded out . . . around the eyes and mouth. It's a green-tinted herbal magician, smelling exotically of almonds . . . and has many facets in its use. Because it has an effect on the pores, activating them, whatever you use after it has its benefits doubled and tripled . . . which is a good thought to remember when you're using a night cream and want your face to look smooth as cream when you awaken.

If you'd like information on this "radiant skin lotion," a stimulant that is unique, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, weekdays except Saturday, or write, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

IF YOUR COMPLEXION is dull and lined . . . and springtime has done it no perceptible good, Arline Gould says that you need the extra help of surface stimulation . . . and describes a lotion which is "exercice" for the complexion as you exercise to rthe body . . . it stimulates it to new clarity . . . so it'll be as smooth as Bette Davis' . . . and fades lines out through sub-surface stimulation of the bloodstream.

Personal Gift

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

A friend of mine has been so kind as to get a position for me, and I want very much to send her a gift, in appreciation. What do you think would be appropriate for me to send? B. P.

I suggest that you send her something that could be personalized with her initials or monogram, or the facsimile of her signature. For instance, you could have her initials or the facsimile of her signature stamped on a pen and pencil set. Or her monogram put on a purse.

'Enriched Bread' Perfect For Favorite Recipes

By MARTHA LEE

WITH PLENTY of the new "enriched bread" on the market, you're probably wondering whether you can use it with accustomed success in your favorite made-with-bread recipes. The answer is "yes". The extra B-complex vitamins and the iron with which white bread is "enriched" in no way affects its cooking properties.

Use it in your standbys—in new and unusual dishes, too. Here are some suggestions for starters:

CREOLE HAM PIE

(With Baked Toast Topping)

1½ cups milk
5 slices enriched bread
1½ tbsp. butter
2 tbsp. catsup
⅛ tsp. chili powder
1½ cups cooked diced ham
1 cup whole kernel corn
Salt to taste
(6 slices enriched bread)
(3 tbsp. butter)

Scald milk. Remove crusts from the 5 slices of enriched bread and crumble the bread into the milk. Cook over low heat, stirring well until mixture thickens. Blend in butter, catsup and chili powder. Add ham, corn and salt to taste. Transfer to a shallow baking dish. Prepare the 6 slices of bread for Baked Toast Topping, as follows: Remove crusts and spread both sides of bread generously with butter. With a sharp knife, score a cut each slice into small squares almost through to bottom. Arrange slices, cut side up, on top of ham mixture. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) until bread is crisp and golden—about 2 minutes. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SAVORY DEEP-BAKE

1 can condensed celery soup
½ cup milk
6 hard-cooked eggs, quartered
¼ cup chopped stuffed olives
¼ lb. soft snappy cheese
1 egg, well beaten
½ tsp. mustard
¼ tsp. salt
4 slices enriched bread
1 tbsp. butter

Heat soup with milk. Add the cooked eggs, cut in quarters, and the olives. Transfer to buttered casserole. Blend cheese with beaten egg and seasonings until creamy. Toast the enriched bread lightly on one side only; remove the crusts and spread the untoasted side with butter, then with cheese mixture. Cut slices to fit top of casserole (triangles, squares, circles or wedges) and arrange, cheese side up, on top of egg mixture. Bake in hot oven (400 deg. F.) until bread is golden — about 20 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

CHOCOLATE BREAD PUDDING

2 cups small cubes dry bread
4 cups milk, scalded
1 1-oz. square unsweetened chocolate, grated
1 tbsp. butter
¼ tsp. salt
⅔ cup sugar
4 slightly beaten eggs
1 tsp. vanilla extract

Add grated chocolate to scalded milk. Soak bread in milk 5 minutes. Add butter, salt, and sugar. Pour slowly over eggs; add vanilla extract and mix well. Pour into greased baking dish. Bake in pan of hot water in moderate oven (350 deg. F.) until firm, about 50 minutes. Serve warm with cream.

DiMAGGIO FINDS RANGE

Red Sox Outfielder Partial to Nat Hurling

By HERB FINNEGAN

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21—What a difference just a few weeks can make.

On Monday, April 7, as the Sox were playing Cincinnati in Owensboro, Ky., Lou Finney was the leading hitter on the club. His clothesline drives were the envy of every man on the Sox and the Reds. The pitchers couldn't get him out, it seemed.

LOU FINNEY

"If we only had that guy on our club," the Reds would moan as Lou blasted one between left and center or center and right. Ival Goodman was underweight and was having trouble with his right shoulder. The Reds didn't know what they were going to use for a left-handed hitter. What they wouldn't give for a mal like Finney.

Dom DiMaggio, on the other hand, couldn't hit one with a banjo. "Does anybody know where a fellow can buy a base hit?" he would ask imploringly.

He was a forlorn looking figure as he tried in vain to hit Derringer. He was given to brooding and tearing the lining out of his stomach.

At the same time husky Stanley Spence was ripping the cover off the ball, and one wondered how DiMaggio could hold his position with such a hitter as Spence around.

But if that Monday was blue for DiMaggio, it was indigo black for the handsome Mr. Finney. Three times that afternoon Lou hit prospective triples, and three times the speedy Harry Craft pulled the drives down after marathon runs.

Craft Ruined Finney's Ambition

IT SEEMED TO DO something to Lou, for after that he couldn't hit a lick.

Oh, he got one here and there of course, but he wasn't hitting the ball as he had been in the deep South. He perked up a bit in the city series with the Bees, and on opening day in Boston he got two hits against the Senators and scooted home with the winning run in that thrilling 7-6 game.

But he didn't hit in the Wednesday 12 inning hair-lifter, nor did his outfield mate, DiMaggio.

Finney at least had the satisfaction of knowing he had been hitting, but DiMaggio, just as on Monday, April 7, still was asking where he could buy a base hit.

He was a puzzled little Dom after that mid-week game. He was sitting at his locker staring into space as we met him. He was "low" and he admitted it.

"I'm not in a slump," he tried to explain. "When I'm in a slump, my brains are full of cob webs, and can't think at all. But my brain is clear now. I thought I had the answer to my inability to hit when I batted against Salvo in the city series. I found I was swinging too hard; yet I've played two games since, and have not made one scratch hit."

He paused for a minute before going shower-ward.

"I know one thing," he said, "and that is I am down too fine. Seven weeks of exhibition games with only two days of rain. But the overtraining is my own fault. I ran too much, I started right off the bat at Sarasota, anxious to get away fast because of the awful time I had last year with my bad ankle.

Collins Boy Robbed Joe of Hit

"But I'm no help to the club the way I'm going. Probably the best thing for me would be to rest a couple of days".

Dom did rest the next day, not because Cronin took him out of the lineup but because the game was called on account of rain.

And as the Blue Monday in Owensboro was the turning point in Finney's spring hitting, so was Wednesday, April 17, the crisis in Dom's.

After that day of rest, he came up with two hits against the A's in Philadelphia and was robbed of a third by Eddie Collins, Jr.

"It was the first time I enjoyed dinner this spring," he said that night.

The next day he came up with four and was robbed of a fifth by the same junior Collins.

"A marvelous dinner," he admitted, not remembering what he ate. He was walking on air.

Ten hits in three days. More than he had made in the previous seven weeks combined, it seemed. Eleven hits in 23 tries for the five games. Almost a .500 average. What a turnabout after his sad spring.

"Even the oatmeal tastes like turkey," he said this morning as he emerged from the dining room, his sparkling white teeth flashing.

In the far corner of the room sat Mr. Finney, chewing more on his lips than on his eggs.

"Seventeen for 0" he wailed. "This coffee is terrible." Whereas the coffee seemed like nectar to DiMaggio, it tasted like the bottom of the barrel to Lou.

"Pressing, experimenting up there," Lou said of his slump. "Doing something wrong, and I don't know what it is."

Few Days of Rest Sure to Help

The cure? That's easy. A day off like DiMaggio had last Wednesday, and Lou should be all right again. Like Dom, he reported in excellent condition at Sarasota and was ready for the bell three days after training started. He's down fine now, and worrying, but not too much.

"No sense worrying when the club is winning," said Lou. "Perhaps I'll start to hit when they need it more than they do now."

He looked out the window at the overcast sky. "Looks as if I'll get that day off after all," he smiled. "Maybe I'll start hitting tomorrow."

Yes, it's funny what a difference just a few weeks make.

Whose turn will it be to do the moaning one month from now?

14 NEW OWNERS CONTROL BEES' DIAMOND FRANCHISE

By JOE CASHMAN

Another chapter in the 76-year-old and often stormy history of the Boston National League baseball club had begun today with a group of 14 new owners in control of the franchise.

After months of negotiation, the 14, who may become 17 in the near future, have purchased 73 per cent of the stock in the franchise from Charles F. Adams, chain grocery store magnate and president of the Eastern Racing Association, which operates Suffolk Downs.

Bob Quinn, Bees' president; his son John Quinn, Bees' secretary, and Casey Stengel, Bees' manager, are all members of the new syndicate.

The other eleven include:

Joseph Conway, Brookline, head of the Horace Partridge sporting goods firm.

Richard Hevessy, Newton Center, automobile dealer.

Joseph Maney, Boston contractor.

Daniel Marr, Boston, contractor.

Frank McCourt, Boston, contractor.

Francis Quimet, Wellesley, famed golfer and stock broker.

Louis Perini, Wellesley, contractor.

J. W. Powdrell, Danielson, Ct., textile manufacturer.

Guido Rugo, Milton, contractor.

Dr. William Wrang, Middleton, Ct.

It will be noted that all but two of the group are residents of New England and ten are residents of Greater Boston.

That was the point stressed by Bob Quinn, as he made the announcement, and it was apparent to scribes assembled that what pleased the "prexy" most was the local tinge to the new controlling combine.

"I could have disposed of Mr. Adams' holdings long ago if I had been willing to take in people from New York, the Midwest and the South," Quinn stated. "I was determined, however, to interest New England capital in the club, if possible, and I'm delighted to announce I have succeeded.

"Most of these men are as well known to Bees' fans as they are to me. They are prominent and highly respected in Greater Boston business circles and they are all wealthy. They are the type of owners the club has long needed."

The only strangers to Boston in the group are Max Myer and J. W. Powdrell. Myer has long been a baseball enthusiast and is a close friend and strong admirer of Casey Stengel. Powdrell is an intimate acquaintance of Bob Quinn.

The deal, which has been hanging fire for months, was finally completed at a meeting held yesterday noon.

The price paid C. F. Adams for his holdings was not disclosed but estimates place it in the vicinity of $450,000.

Quinn wouldn't comment on the price nor on how the shares are

NEW SETUP—Prexy Bob Quinn of the Bees was beaming all over when he announced to the press the new order of events at the Beehive. The stock owned by Charles F. Adams was picked up by 14 new share croppers with the possibility that three more will be declared in on the bargain.

Reds' Boss Denies Leiber Deal On

CHICAGO, April 21 (AP)—Warren Giles, general manager of the Cincinnati baseball club, says he didn't come to Chicago to open negotiations with the Cubs for obtaining Outfielder Hank Leiber, the major league's lone holdout.

Giles arrived 24 hours head of the Reds, who open against the Cubs today. His purpose, he said, was merely to visit relatives and not to discuss deals with the Cubs.

Asked if the Reds would be interested in Leiber, Giles said:

"Oh, I don't think so.

"I've never had any conversations with Cub officials about Leiber. In fact, I've never thought about getting him, and our manager, Bill McKechnie, never has mentioned such a possibility."

Maguire 'Finds' Enable Eagles To Upset Rams

Heartened by the five-hit winning performance Junior George Bent uncorked against Fordham Patriot's Day at Alumni Field Coach Fred Maguire will continue his search for further "undiscovered" talent among his Boston College squad during the present week—an idle one on the Eagle schedule.

Maguire "discovered" Bent last week. Though a member of the varsity squad during his sophomore year the tall alum he weighs only 145 pounds—left-hander didn't see any action.

BANKS ON SOUTHPAW

After Boston College had lost its opener to Northeastern, Mentor Maguire was faced with the dilemma of finding a combination which might make a creditable showing against traditional Patriots' Day opening game at Alumni Field rival Fordham.

The Eagle mentor took a gander at the Rams from Rose Hill Friday afternoon when Holy Cross and Fordham went 12 innings to a 4-4 draw at Fitton Field.

Fearless Freddy decided then and there that the most likely way to stop the Rams was a dose of first class left-handed pitcher.

BENT MYSTERY MAN

Maguire knew that he had the left-handed pitching, but he couldn't vouch for its grade. Master Bent did the vouching when he stopped the New Yorkers colder than a Spartan's stare and gave Boston College its first victory of the campaign.

Two other "discoveries" by Maguire paid off dividends against Fordham. Coach Fred started Bill Commane, from Dorchester via of B. C. High in right field and Eddie Kenney, from Winchester High School at short stop.

Commane hammered the longest home run ever seen at Alumni Field to start the Eagles on their way in the fifth inning. Commane also singled later in the game, scored a second run, and in the seventh inning made a circus catch in right field to shut off two Fordham runs.

Marble and Budge Court Victors

SYRACUSE, N. Y., April 21 (AP)—Don Budge registered a 6-2, 7-5 triumph over the veteran Bill Tilden in a professional tennis exhibition which also saw Alice Marble take the measure of the British star, Mary Hardwick, 6-4, 6-3.

The boys breezed to an easy victory over their ancient rivals and now point for the "Keepsie" regatta. 622 POUNDS OF WRESTLERS IN SAME BOUT

If the seismographs start wiggling next Wednesday night about 10 o'clock don't get alarmed.

It's not another earthquake with its center up around Ossipee, N. H. It will be an earth-quake in the Boston Arena and the reason for it will be an athletic contest between two of the biggest professional athletes in the world.

They'll be, from the left to right, Ben Morgan of Texas who weighs 320 pounds, and Wladyslau Talun of Poland, who goes a mere 302 pounds. They are wrestlers and they will mingle in the main event of Promoter Paul Bowser's weekly all star tournament.

No title will be involved, but there is a question if two big men so evenly matched in weight have ever clashed in a ring before. Customarily, when the two go forth to battle they arer opposed by pygmies of anywhere from 220 to 250 pounds and they are used to having it all over their foes in strength, height and reach and about every other physical measurement. But this time it will be different.

Morgan is a rough, tough hombre, and Talun can be when he cares to. So, if it develops into one of those knock-'em-down-drag-'em-out affairs, it will be well to seek out the nearest bombshelter. When 622 pounds of human beef on the hoof goes on a collective rampage something is liable to happen. And signs point that the boys may rough it up from the start.

Sport-O-Grimes

By BILL GRIMES

C. F. Adams, who introduced professional hockey into the United States and who brought Bob Quinn back here to save the Boston National League club from being scuttled by investors with no baseball background, has stepped out of another major sport.

Bob Quinn's syndicate purchased 73 per cent of the Bees' stock yesterday and now controls the club, lock, stock and barrel . . . But for the fact that Bob Quinn insisted upon accepting only investors whom he was confident would work in harmony and for the best interest of the club, the deal would have been consummated months ago.

The Quinn syndicate has purchased the best buy in baseball and at a very normal figure. The Bees are young and promising and with men like Bob Quinn, Johnny Quinn and Casey Stengel in charge they can't miss paying dividends.

Now that the deal for the Bees has been closed, the club should start to click. The players had heard rumors that the club was in poor shape financially and they were starting to worry.

Bob Quinn has worked tirelessly for months to put the deal over. A week ago he felt that he had everything set. Then came a bombshell in the form of an announcement that rather than to allow Branch Rickey to buy the controlling interest, C. F. Adams would again become active. However, when the Quinn syndicate had pooled enough money to take over the club, Rickey was brushed aside, which vexed a former stockholder no end.

• • •

After yesterday's turnout at National League Field there isn't the slightest question but that New England is still tremendously interested in baseball. In the three Brooklyn games the Bees played like so many "sugar bush." They were terrible. But it was noticeable that the wolves didn't get too rough with them.

However, after Friday's flop and two more on Saturday there was some doubt in the minds of those interested in the Bees if the ushers would show up yesterday. But just to show that New England is ripe to be plucked by some hustling major league ball club, there were a few less than 12,000 cash customers at the Beehive yesterday afternoon. And the attraction was the Phillies.

With Billy Corcoran, Abe Mitchell and Sergt. Johnny Thoren in the same outfit at Camp Edwards, it recalls the old days in Burt Nicol's pro shop at the Belmont Country Club.

Carl Lund, who broke into the royal and ancient game as a caddy at Wollaston, has taken over Nick Gianferante's berth at Sandy Burr, which will be officially opened this week-end . . . The Gianferante brothers have forsaken this section . . . Pat is in Colorado, Jerry at Brattleboro, Vt., and Nick a few miles up the Connecticut river at Bellows Falls.

In the event that Jerry's game goes sour on him this summer "Whispering" Bill Barrett, who will manage the Brattleboro club of the Northern League for the Red Sox, will gladly straighten him out.

Even at this early date Pres. Harold W. Pierce of the United States Golf Ass'n, is very much concerned over the heat which is likely to be at Ft. Worth, Tex., during the national open championship . . . The Lone Star State weather in June may be ideal for Texans but it's bad news for Northerners.

Bobby Knowles, The Country Club, is one of the most misunderstood golfers in New England . . . To those who really know him, Bobby is very regular and he has proven this fact since he has been in the Army.

And, speaking of the Army . . . Manufacturers of dark glasses report a tremendous increase in their business . . . Hundreds of golfers have resorted to dark glasses in order to keep out of the service.

Eddie Meyers, who doubles in brass as pro and greenskeeper, has his Pine Valley C. C. course in midseason condition . . . He's tops in both lines, Irving L. Bambrick, the steel king, who has been out of golf competition for three years, has come out of retirement, which is a fine indication that there will be more shanked shots this season than there has been since 1938.

Pawtucket Soccer Star's Leg Broken

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—Pawtucket defeated the Brooklyn German-Hungarians, 5 to 1, today to win the Eastern final series of the National Challenge Cup soccer competition, eight goals to one.

Pawtucket had gained a 3-0 lead in the two-game, total-goal series on its home field last week.

Tony Zbuchalski scored Brooklyn's only goal to bring the total score to 3-1. Just before the first half ended, Tommy Wood, Pawtucket center halfback, broke his left leg.

Connie Mack Shifts Pair to Minor Loop

LESLIE PAWSON NEVER BETTER AT 36 YEARS

Once a year, hereabouts, the sports-minded cease laughing at Marathon runners and damn them with faint praise by hailing them as "the purest of amateurs."

Actually those oft-scorned "plodders" are the most durable and consistent of runners, as the records of their 26 miles, 385 yards event reveal. And additional proof of those claims was provided by Leslie Pawson, Pawtucket, R. I., park superintendent, on Saturday when he won his third Boston A. A. marathon in 11 starts in that famous endurance test.

At 36, years after the overwhelming majority of runners have passed into retirement, Pawson turned in what he considers the greatest race of the 350-odd he has attempted since he became a competitive runner 20 years ago.

"I never ran more confidently than I did to win my third B. A. A. race," he explained. "I am 36 years old, an age when most athletes are washed up, but I honestly can say this was my best race. The time of 2:30.38 proves it, and never during my other victories, in 1933 and 1938, was I as strong as in this race."

That statement, combined with the fact that Pawson has been one of the first 10 finishers seven out of 11 times, appears to clinch the Marathoners' claims that they are both durable and consistent.

Pawson also reveals that they also are the most diligent workers in sports, for during the two months he spent priming himself for Saturday's triumph, he ran a total of 350 miles, including two 24-mile practice jogs and a pair of 26-milers.

Pawson, however, still must be rated as a juvenile in his sport when compared with the only other marathoner who has won more B. A. A. races, the 54-year-old Clarence DeMar. He won the first of his seven victories back in 1911.

As usual, DeMar was one of Pawson's 123 rivals on Saturday. As usual, the aged Clarence performed in sensational fashion for one of his years, finishing 20th, three places ahead of the older Bill Kennedy of East Portchester, Ct., who won the race back in 1917 and is gripped by an unfaltering ambition to do it again.

Cochrane Gets Shot At Zivic's Title

BASE RUNNING SPIRIT MAKES SOX A. L. FACTOR

By HERB FINNEGAN

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 21—There is one outstanding characteristic about the league leading Red Sox which distinguishes them from the 1940 Sox and which has aided materially in keeping them undefeated to date.

These 1941 Sox are a base-running outfit.

Many a time and oft in the past have we watched Sox base-runners twiddle their thumbs waiting for the base-hit which never came. Not so this year.

The opening game with Washington here which the Sox won, 14-8, was a good example of their new heads-up play.

Dom DiMaggio opened the game with a double. Instead of letting him rest on second, Lou Finney flashed the hit-and-run with nobody out, and Dom was off for third. As it happened, Finney hit to shortstop and was retired, but Dom made third standing up, took his turn and was ready to score if Travis' throw to first had not been accurate.

SCORED ON FLY BALL

Had th his and run not been on, Dom would not have made third on the play. He scored a moment later on Pete Fox's fly to center. He could not have scored from second.

Again in the fifth Dom led off with a double. He advanced to third on Finney's fly to felt. Pete Fox walked. He and Dom were about to work a double steal when young Sid Hudson, unnerved by their antics, uncorked a wild pitch.

Dom scored and Pete reached second. Jimmy Foxx walked and no sooner had he reached the bag than he and Pete attempted a double steal. Cronin was at bat. He loped a bunt down the third base line, and young Buddy Lewis was so upset wondering whether to field the bunt or play the bag that he dropped Catcher Evans' throw. Both Fox and Foxx were safe as a result and they came in on Doerr's single.

DiMaggio walked in the eighth, so did Finney. With nobody out they tried the double steal and got away with it. Young Anderson was pitching for the Nats at the time, and the play so rattled him, Bucky Harris took him out. In came MacFayden who walked Jimmy Foxx. Then followed singles by Cronin, Doerr and Tabor, and four runs were in which cemented the decision.

DOM WEAKENS

With one out in the ninth, DiMaggio weakened a bit, getting only a single. Finney walked and Pete Fox was hit by the pitcher, who this time was young Jim Dean. DiMag scored and Finney went to third on Foxx's fly to center.

Then, with Finney on third and Pete Fox on first, they tried a new play. Fox broke for second, hoping to draw a throw. Had Dean thrown to second, Finney would have set sail for the plate, but Dean, unnerved, threw to third to trap Finney, the ball went into left field, Lou and Fox scoring.

That's the way it was all afternoon. Buddy Lewis, who would rather play the outfield anyway, was unsteady all day. His muff of Evans' throw in the fifth on the Fox-Foxx attempted double steal actually was the turning point of the ball game because Doerr rescued both a moment later with a single.

Speed boys like DiMaggio, Finney and Fox should be running all the time. And that's just what they're doing. By doing so, they're driving the young pitchers crazy.

Of course, the Sox have played only second division clubs like Washington and Philadelphia to date. They may not be able to run wild on New York, Cleveland, Detroit or Chicago but at least they'll annoy them more than they did a year ago.

FOX SMART ON BASELINE

Pete Fox is a great base-runner. His presence has done much to make the Sox base-running minded. He's forever devising scoring tricks with DiMag, Finney and Foxx who follow him. He's one reason Joe Cronin is in no hurry to insert Ted Williams into the line-up.

One reason why the kids keep asking: "Did any club ever win 154 games in a season?" Even the veterans on the club are beginning to wonder if they can lose one.

"I just couldn't keep the ball low," said the disappointed Mike Ryba in reviewing his first start of the season. "Guess I was just trying too hard." Mike was raked for nine hits and four runs in his six innings but might have gone the route had not the umpire called Lewis safe in the sixth when Foxx's toes to Ryba at first had him by two steps.

CRONIN HITS HOMER

Two runs followed. The Sox led, 7 to 4, at the time, and Mike seemed to be sitting pretty. But when three men got on in the first half of the seventh, Cronin sent in Williams to bat for Ryba, hoping to clinch the game then and th re. The move was nearly fatal because Hash passed two men in the seventh, two more in the eighth before Cramer hit his four-run homer and also the first batter in the ninth. Lucky for Mr. Hash those Red Sox were running the base . Their ninth inning track meet saved him.

Hudlin Hurls No-Hit Game

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., April 21 (AP)—The veteran Willis Hudlin, showing perfect control, pitched a no-hit game against the New Orleans Southern Ass'n team today to climax a double victory for Little Roch, 6-5 and 4-0.

Confused by Hudlin's clever performance, only two New Orleans players reached first base, both on errors in the seven inning nightcap.

Hudlin, who pitched for the Cleveland Indians for more than a decade, did not walk a single man and accounted for one of the travelers' three hits with a double off the left field scoreboard.

Detroit Bowler Sets Dizzy Pace

ST. PAUL, April 21 (AP)—Detroit bowlers usurped the spotlight in the minor events of the American Bowling Congress tournament.

Andrew Bino of that city was the outstanding performer, although he did not make the board of big ten leaders.

In the singles he rolled 677 on games of 255, 203 and 219. In the all-events, he had a nine-game total of 1880 on series of 604 in the team event, 599 in the doubles and 677 in singles.

MAJOR McCREERY HAS ACE UP SLEEVE IN BOB MORRIS

NEW YORK, April 21 (AP)—In a little cottage stuck in between barns at Belmont Park, there's a tall, spare Army man who is caring for the only "sensation" developed so far this spring for the Kentucky Derby, less than two weeks off.

He is Maj. Tom McCreery, and he won't tell you too much about his horses probably because he doesn't want to be accused of braggin'.

After a year of hard luck with two other Derby candidates, Maj Tom is sitting tight right now, because on Bobby Morris, a cagey colt with a lot of heart but not too much legs, he appears to have enough talent to give any of 'em a tussle for the necklace of roses a week from Saturday.

Young Bob Morris won over older horses in the mile-and-sixteenth Excelsior handicap at Jamaica was the high spot of a day which saw Dispose and Curious Coin, the Florida bosses, show absolutely no Derby class, while Our Boots and Charley (Lucky) How experimental handicap at Jamaica spring debuts with some highly successful stepping.

DISPOSE IN BAD

For Dispose and Curious Coin the Derby winter books offered on was a disastrous affair, although neither stable would say whether it ended their Derby hopes. The former, winner of the Hialeah Flamingo Stakes and up to the co-choice for the Derby wound up an absolutely done-in last and Curious Coin, second in the Flamingo, finished a fast-tiring fourth behind Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloan's non-Derby eligible, Mettlesome.

Porter's Cap galloped in with the Chesapeake at Havre De Grace, despite a flying finish by Rocky Palladino's Little Bears, and Our Boots, making his first three-year-old start, clicked in a six-furlong purse at Keeneland, on a program which also saw Mrs. Vera Bragg's Blue Pan come home third behind two older horses in the Ben Ali Handicap.

The story of the day, however, was Bob Morris and Major Tom. The major had a couple of Derby eligibles sent over from England last year by Lord Carnarvon. They were Robert E. Lee and Rufigi and neither of them ever got to first base. In fact, they barely had a time at bat.

This time, however, Major Tom can take a big pat on the back for the colt who is named after the man accredited with "bankrolling" the American Revolution. He—the colt, of course—is owned by J. Fred Byers, a Pittsburgh steel man, who gambled on him twice.

200-TO-1 IN WINTER BOOK

The first time, Byers bid up to $3200 to buy young Bob out of the Saratoga yearling sales of two years ago. The second time, he took a chance on some of the 200 to 1 the Derby winter books offered on the colt when they first opened.

Two Horses Finish 35-Mile Road Test

CHARLESTON, S. C., April 21 (AP)—Dr. Arne L. Suominen, 11-year-old physician and native of Finland, saw one horse collapse under the grind and then completed his 35-mile marathon at the Jockey Club track only a mile and a half behind the second horse pitted against him.

The first horse, Lady, owned by John Marchotsis and ridden by Pete Trukalas, collapsed after eight miles of the man-equine endurance contest.

Starting at 2:13 p. m., in the heat of a summerlike day, Dr. Suominen, one-time physician to the late Mayor Cermak of Chicago, stopped only a few times for a rub down administered by his wife, and finished his run at 7:28 p. m. The second horse had crossed the finish line 12 minutes earlier.

N. H. Rifle Champions Start in Hearst Classic

By WALTER KILEY

Among the 16 teams waiting the signal to commence firing in the William Randolph Hearst Citizens' Marksmanship Championships is the well known Klean-Kutt rifle team of East Jaffrey, N. H.

Klean-Kutt will have a quartet of expert marksmen on the firing line when the qualified teams report at the 101st Infantry Armory, East Newton st., Boston, Sunday, May 4. The championship finals are due to start at 1 o'clock that afternoon.

The New Hampshire team recently wound up titleholder of the "Bullets League" in the winter gallery series of qualifying matches. Included were rival teams from Massachusetts and New Hampshire.

The Klean-Kutt Rifle Club was organized and incorporated in 1935 with 18 charter members. It had then barely enough room to allow a 35-foot range. Today it has a seven-point 50-foot range, with a 35-foot sitting and scoring room behind the firing line, an adjoining club room and kitchen. Its present membership is 96 plus a women's affiliate.

Most of the team members are hunting and fishing ethusiasts but had no target shooting experience up to five years ago. The four team members coming to Boston, R. Duval, R. Stannard, L. LaPage and N. Gill, are potential 190 men (10 off hand and 10 prone).

William C. Bemis, secretary of the live-wire organization, writes that he thinks the team will live up to expectations and give an excellent account of its marksmanship.

He says that every one of the team is looking forward with the greatest anticipation to the Hearst Championship Finals, the winner of which is to be rewarded with the handsome Hearst Trophy.

Bees Option Rucidlo To Hartford Farm

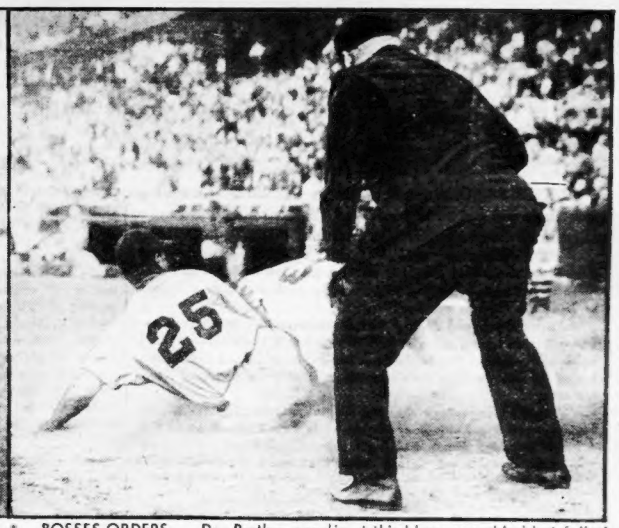
READS RIOT ACT . . . Doc Prothro, manager of the Phillies, pulled his infield together for a conference in the ninth inning in an attempt to stop the Bees. The clan listened intently but the cards were stacked against the lads from the city of Brotherly Love. Dahlgren upset all the dope poling a homer over the centerfield fence with Miller on base. The outcome, Bees 7, Phils 5.



BOSSES ORDERS . . . Doc Prothro, coaching at third base, gambled but failed to draw the case ace in yesterday's Bees victory. Manny Salvo uncorked a wild pitch and Nick Etten, Phils first sacker, tried to score from third but Catcher Ray Berres retrieved the ball and nipped the fleet-footed Etten at the plate, Berres to Salvo.

Dahlgren's Batting Subdues Phils, 7-5

By JOE CASHMAN

If Clark Griffith, Senators' owner, was upset over the Yankees giving "Babe" Dahlgren to the Bees, imagine how the "Old Fox" must feel today.

The Swarm has won three games. Two of the victories can be traced directly to the flashy Babe's big bat.

Already the old Red Sox favorite has hit three home runs. The latest of these round-trippers, coming in the 10th inning of the Sabbath set-to at the Hive, gave the Swarm a 7 to 5 decision over the Phils'.

Walter "Boom Boom" Beck was the victim of the smash, which sailed far over the left field fence as the Babe followed Eddie Miller across the plate to register the Bees' initial home win of the campaign.

Dahlgren, in his first week in the National League, has become very fond of Beck. And Boom Boom has come to detest the Babe violently.

The pair met for the first time down in Philadelphia last Thursday. Their respective clubs were battling for the third and rubber game of the opening series of the year.

WRECKED BOOM BOOM

"Boom Boom" was enjoying a one-run lead when Babe stepped to the plate in the seventh. The Bees were enjoying a one-run lead when the Babe hammered one of "Boom Boom's" choicest serves into the upper deck at Shibe Park with a mate on base.

Dahlgren couldn't blast his new mates to victory in any of the games against the Dodgers but he didn't fail for want of trying.

He got a homer, double and single in the local inaugural. Saturday morning he fashioned one of five Boston blows and, in the afternoon, one of three safeties the natives collected off Whitlow Wyatt.

If nominations for the best buy of the 1041 baseball season are in order at this early date, it is hereby requested that the gentlemen in charge of such details give generous heed to the purchase of one Ellsworth Dahlgren by the Bees of Boston.

YANKEES ON SPOT

It is difficult to question the baseball sagacity of Yankee Manager Joe McCarthy, who sold Babe to the Bees when he decided to make over his club following its fall from championship grace last season.

But the writers who covered spring training and the thousands who have witnessed Dahlgren's fielding and batting miracles since opening day are unanimous in their opinion that the sale of Babe was a stupid move on the part of the Yankee pilot.

McCarthy attempted to alibi the sale to New York fans by declaring Dahlgren wasn't a standout first baseman, but was forced to make flashy plays because his arms are too short to field his position adequately otherwise.

Pay Tribute To N. Y. Stars

New York A. C. athletes who won national championships in six different fields of endeavor were honored at the Winged Footers' 10th annual all-sports dinner.

NEW OWNERS CONTROL BEES' FRANCHISE

divided among the fourteen new bosses.

Whether any one of the group controls more stock than any other member will remain a secret, if the "prexy" has his way.

"It makes no difference, so we're not saying anything about individual holdings," he said. "We're in this thing all together, we're happy about it and our aim is to give Bees' supporters a winning ball club."

Bob wouldn't even admit that it had been agreed he would remain as president and front office boss of the Swarm under the new setup, though this is virtually certain.

ELECT OFFICERS LATER

"The syndicate has no officials as yet," he explained. "We'll call a meeting of the stockholders soon to elect officers."

In addition to this group of 14, stockholders included Leo Goulston vice-president of the Bees since 1935; former Gov. Frank Allen of Norwood and ex-Congressman Joseph O'Connell of Boston. This trio owns the majority of the 27 per cent of the stock which wasn't held by C. F. Adams.

The assertion that the group of 14 may yet become one of 17 is based on a statement by Quinn that three other local business men, now out of town, had signified a desire to join the combine.

"We'll take them if when they get back to Boston, they still feel the same way about it," the "prexy" announced.

He added that John Cooney, veteran coach and outfielder of the Bees, had sought to join the group but it was necessary to give him back the certified check he had put up.

Other National League club owners, Quinn revealed, had objected to establishing the precedent of allowing an active player to become part owner of a club to which he is under contract.

The sale climaxed a five-year effort on the part of Charles F. Adams and Bob Quinn to interest new capital in the club.

Adams, because of his holdings in the Suffolk Downs race track, didn't meet with Judge Landis' approval as a major league magnate.

The Commissioner, who frowns severely on a tie-up between baseball and racing, couldn't do anything about it when Judge Emil Fuchs stepped out, leaving the franchise in Adams' lap at the close of the '35 season, but he urged that Adams find a buyer for the club as soon as possible.

LANDIS FUSSY

That it took so long to find new owners was partly the fault of Landis and partly of Adams.

Elmer Ward, Boston business man, and "Bing" Crosby, famed crooner, wanted to form a partnership to buy the club last fall but the commissioner wouldn't O. K. Crosby because of the former's connection with the Del Mar race track in California.

Several other prospective purchasers were given a cold shoulder by Adams because they didn't meet with Quinn's approval. Among those was Albert Powell, New Haven coal tycoon, who was vice-president of the club during the early years of the Judge Fuchs regime back in the mid-twenties.

Adams insisted all along that he wouldn't agree to sell until Quinn was completely satisfied with the new owners.

The forming of the new syndicate started last December, shortly after the Powell gesture to buy the club failed.

Quinn got busy and with the help of Joe Conway and Casey Stengel finally got together the group which yesterday agreed to take over the franchise.

Boston fans first learned of this when they read it early this year as an exclusive in Jack Conway's Mr. Boston column.

The names of most of the new owners were mentioned in speculative stories regarding the change in the club's ownership.

Dr. Wrang is a companion of Joe Conway. Joe Quinn has long been friendly with both Dick Hevesy and Joe Maney. Maney, as a contractor, is personally acquainted with the many other contractors in the group.

OUIMET MENTIONED

Ouimet's name had cropped up in rumors but never before in connection with this group. The names of Daniel Marr, Frank McCourt and J. M. Powdrell hadn't previously figured in any of the trade reports.

Ouimet, of course, has been identified with sport as a golfing immortal and dyed-in-the-wool baseball fan for going on 30 years.

Joe Conway, too, is very well known in athletic circles. For years his sporting goods concern has furnished the Bees and several other big league clubs with their uniforms and it was he who persuaded Bill Carrigan to come out of retirement as Red Sox manager for Bob Quinn in 1927.

Joe Maney, reportedly, had some money invested in the Braves during the Judge Fuchs regime. The other new business men in the group have never been prominently connected with sports except as enthusiasts. Now that they and their money are in baseball, the Bees are in a position to go places in the National League.

Charles F. Adams would have have gladly invested fresh money in the club to be used for the purchase of ball players, but Commissioner Landis wouldn't permit it.

POWELL STEPPED OUT

Quinn had only the profits, if any, of the club and what money he could borrow to use to buy players.

It will be different in the future.

The majority of the new owners are rated as millionaires and they're willing, yes anxious, to spend plenty in an effort to give Bees' fans a winning ball club.

The Boston National League club is a charter member of the circuit. Bob Quinn is the 12th president since 1876.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

MIKE JACOBS, head of the Twentieth Century Club, took time out between rounds of the Zivic-Kaplan bout to talk about the heavyweight situation.

"Six months ago it looked as if I didn't have an opponent who could draw real money if pitted against Joe Louis," said Mike, "and now I have a handful of boxers who think they have a chance to beat the 'Brown Bomber'.

"Billy Conn and Johnny Ray, his manager, are burning up because I won't give them a definite date for a Louis tussle . . . I originally planned the Louis-Conn bout for June. Then Abe Simon lasted 13 rounds with the champion, and Buddy Baer stopped Tony Galento.

"These happenings changed the heavyweight picture. Washington wanted a Louis-Baer contest, while New York clamored for a battle between Simon and Louis. I knew both bouts would draw big gates, and I went ahead and arranged them. Louis will meet Baer in Washington on May 18, while I will give Simon the June date in New York I was holding for Conn."

I asked Mike how Conn would fit into the new picture.

"If Louis wins from Baer and Simon, I shall match Conn with the champion for a July date in New York," replied Mike. "July is a poor month for boxing in New York, and that is why I wish to stage what I consider my strongest attraction at that time.

"If all goes well with Louis, he will meet Lou Nova in New York in September. It looks as if Joe is going to be the busiest heavyweight champion the ring has ever known."

Kaplan to Get Title Bout With Zivic

MIKE KAPLAN will receive a bout with Fritzie Zivic for the welterweight championship of the world.

"I would rather hold the bout in New York than in Boston," said Jacobs. "In their over-weight match, Zivic and Kaplan only drew $15,000 net. I don't believe the figures for a title scrap in Boston could equal those of a New York engagement."

I told Mike I think he is wrong.

"The Zivic bout in the Garden was Kaplan's first Boston bout of importance," I told Jacobs. "Kaplan had never drawn as much as $5000 in his home city. A lot of people didn't believe Kaplan had developed into as good a boxer as New York and Philadelphia sports writers said he had. They had to be shown, and I think the $15,000 gate was something about which to cheer. You must also remember that Zivic had never shown in Boston before, and the fans did not consider his wins over Henry Armstrong brilliant feats on account of the fact the little colored star had had wounds over his eyes."

Matchmaker "Rip" Valenti is also barraging Jacobs with reasons why the Kaplan-Zivic bout belongs in one of the Boston baseball parks during the coming season. Over the 15-round route with Zivic's title at stake, the tussle will draw $40,000 to $50,000.

Kaplan Cocky and Fresh, but Can Fight

KAPLAN IS A cocky, fresh kid, but he can fight as he proved when he outscored Zivic. I like to see boxers who have complete faith in themselves, and who believe the world is a sucker to be taken. They usually get some place.

I don't believe Kaplan was in the least awe of Zivic. The fact Zivic is world's welterweight champion failed to impress Kaplan who thinks he is the best 147 pounder in the world. The fact Zivic insisted that Kaplan enter the ring above the welterweight notch was some indication that the welterweight king also believed that the Dorchester youth was the class of his ring division.

Kaplan could have made 147 pounds easily, but was obliged to weigh in above this weight. Lester (Shorty) McLellan of the Boston American photo staff as well as Zivic profited by the overweight match. "Shorty" was assigned to cover the weighing in ceremonies, and watched the boxers as they each weighed in at 148 pounds.

"I guess 148 is a lucky number today," "Shorty" told his favorite bookmaker.

McLellan then risked 25 cents on 148 in a number pool, and when 148 came up he won $150.

"Shorty" has asked for all future assignments at weighing in ceremonies.

'NO COLOR BAN' NEW HARVARD SPORT EDICT

Harvard University today served notice that in the future all sports schedules with other colleges will be arranged on the principle that Negro players must be allowed to play.

The announcement by Director of Athletics William J. Bingham climaxed a controversy over the barring of Crimson lacrosse player Lucien V. Alexis, Jr., New Orleans Negro, from a game with Navy several weeks ago.

Student groups had protested to President Roosevelt and United States Senator David I. Walsh, chairman of the Senate Naval Affairs Committee, the action of the authorities at Annapolis.

Resolutions were adopted stating that Negroes were being called in the Selective Service draft and other branches of national defense and there should be no discrimination of them in athletics.

The case of Alexis attracted widespread attention, especially in view of the fact several Negro players are due to appear on the Crimson football squad and other Harvard athletic teams in the fall. Harvard is to resume gridiron activity with Navy at Harvard stadium in October for the first time in several years.

Alexis had traveled to Annapolis, Md., with the Crimson lacrosse team and had been scheduled to play. Following a telephone call between Bingham and the Navy athletic director, however, in which the Navy official protested he had not been notified a Negro was a member of the Harvard team, Alexis returned to Cambridge.

A furor of protest resulted.

HUSKY CREW LEADS NATION

By International News Service

The University of Washington's sturdy crew had virtually posted notice today that it will require super-oarsmen to unseat the defending champions of intercollegiate shell racing.

Although minus three of the boatsmen who rowed away to victory in the classic Poughkeepsie race on the Hudson river last year, the Washingtonians served their warnings in one of a trio of regattas staged during the week-end.

The tanned, smooth-working huskies won a record-smashing triumph over a green California eight over an incoming tide in the Oakland estuary. The Washington varsity clicked off the three-mile distance in 14 minutes, 28 seconds—20.4 seconds under the former course mark.

During the entire race, except for the usual swift start, the giant Washington crew never set their stroke count above 31 per minute. This was sufficient to send them in three lengths ahead of California.

Meanwhile, Princeton's Tigers came home three-quarters of a length ahead of the U. S. Naval Academy crew in their competition on the Severn river at Annapolis.

Columbia made its 1941 debut with a three-quarters length victory over the Rutgers varsity.

Minus Glasses, Fielder Rockets To .486 Mark

ATLANTA, April 21 (AP)—Once convinced his eyes were bad, Hubert (Buddy) Bates, centerfielder for Memphis of the Southern Association part of 1940, put on glasses and wound up the season with a .286 batting average.

During the winter layoff an eye specialist told him to throw his glasses away and forget about his eyes. He did.

New England Loop To Open May 25

WORCESTER, April 21 (AP)—At a meeting of the New England Baseball League here today, Pres. Claude Davidson of Harwichport appointed the committee of Gus Henrickson, Worcester. Nortons; George Atkinson, Lynn Rrasers, and Martin Cote, Manchester, N. H., to draw up a league schedule.

The committee will meet Tuesday night in Boston. Date for the league openers has been set for Sunday, May 25.

The next meeting of the league will be held at Quincy on May 4.

Three Maine Nines Guests of Huskies

Northeastern's outstanding varsity baseball team will play three home games this week, all of them against Maine colleges. University of Maine will play at Huntington Field on Thursday, Colby College will be here Friday, and Bates Saturday.

The three-day schedule will make it necessary for Coach Herb Gallagher to juggle his pitching staff. Charlie Foster and Fred Rice will take care of two of the games, but the third starter has not been determined. The Huskies opened their home season with a 9-0 victory over Boston College.

SPEEDY CHARIOT . . . The staff men of the American-Record did yeoman service covering the Boston Marathon on the week-end. The boys were well serviced by the Hughes Motor Mart Co., De Soto dealers. The lads that enjoyed the ride are left to right: Joe Stagnaro, Walter Kiley, Jim McEnany and Joe Parodi.

I'M FROM INTERNAL REVENUE. DID YOU GET SOME NOTICES TO COME DOWN ABOUT YOUR 1939 INCOME TAX? YEAH? THEN WHY DIDN'T YOU SHOW? MAYBE YOU'RE PICKING LEAVENWORTH FOR A VACATION THIS YEAR, HEY?
HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW BETTER NEVER COME BACK. THERE'S ABOUT TEN GUYS IN THE SAME BOAT LAYING FOR HIM WITH BASE-BALL BATS.
HE DEDUCTED EVERYTHING IN THE BOOK - INCLUDING THE COST OF THE INK FOR MAKING OUT THE RETURN.
I-I-IVE BEEN WAITING FOR MY BROTHER-IN-LAW TO COME BACK. HE-HE-HE MADE OUT THE RETURN FOR ME, HE'S A BOOKKEEPER AND KNOWS ALL ABOUT INCOME TAX AND-ER-THINGS.
TOO CHEAP TO PAY A C.P.A. A FEW BUCKS, HE'LL PROBABLY PAY PLENTY NOW.
HIS BROTHER-IN-LAW ISN'T SO HOT AS A BOOKKEEPER, EITHER
